Prime Minister Macmillan To Resign

British Chief Says Illness Behind Move

"Unflappable Mac" Recovering From Prostate Operation

LONDON (AP)—Harold Macmillan, 69, is stepping down as prime minister.

The "Unflappable Mac" who took over the government in the wake of the Suez crisis, then led his Conservative party to victory in 1959 elections, announced his decision Thursday. He said he will not be well enough to lead the party into battle next year or to fulfill the tasks of prime minister for any lengthy period.

He underwent a successful operation Thursday for removal of his prostate gland. A long period of convalescence lies ahead. He has been prime minister since Jan. 10 1957.

Party To Name Leader

He left it indefinite when he will resign as prime minister, but this will be after the party names a new leader. Under British procedure the prime minister is the leader of the dominant party.

Richard A. Butler seems at this stage most likely to take over.

Macmillan's announcement to the party was disclosed a few hours after he left the operating table.

After saying he would not be well enough to lead the Tories into battle at next year's election, Macmillan added: "Nor could I hope to fulfill the tasks of prime minister for any extended period. I have so informed the queen."

After nearly seven years in office, Macmillan's decision came at a low point in his career. Buffeted by the Profumo affair and other national crises, he was under heavy party pressure to quit even before he was stricken Tuesday by illness.

Letter Shocks Convention

The letter was written Wednesday after his doctors had diagnosed a bladder obstruction. Despite the opinion of medical experts that he might make a swift recovery, the resignation announcement went ahead.

The letter was read by Foreign Secretary Lord Home at the annual Conservative party convention in Blackpool, some 200 miles north of London. The news was a shock to the 4,000 delegates.

William Deedes said a successor as prime minister is likely to take office before the end of the year.

Butler, charged by Macmillan to head the government during his illness, has a chance to consolidate his claims to the job Saturday when he addresses a mass meeting of party workers in Macmillan's stead.

Pauling, long a foe of nuclear tests leading to fallout, became a two-time winner of Nobel awards. He received the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954. The reason for the peace award will be announced Dec. 10 when Pauling receives the $49,465 prize money in a ceremony in Oslo, Norway. (AP Photofax)

JFK Prods Gromyko On Cuban Issue

Discussions Held On Widening Area Of Understanding

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko late Thursday and the Russian said both sides had expressed willingness and readiness to broaden the area of possible East-West accord.

White House authorities said Kennedy raised the issue of Russian troops still in Cuba, but without any announced result.

These authorities described the two-hour discussion as a healthy exchange of views on a variety of issues.

Gromyko told reporters: "Both sides expressed willingness to broaden the field of questions on which understanding is possible."

Gromyko was silent on the Cuban question. He declined even to say whether the issue had come up.

Khrush Asks New Peace Effort

Kennedy and Gromyko also stated their respective governmental positions on the proposed East-West nonaggression pact; the Kennedy plan for a NATO seaborne Polaris force; Berlin; Laos, and the banning of nuclear-armed satellites in outer space.

While they were talking, the Moscow radio broadcast a message from Soviet Premier Khrushchev calling for new East-West efforts to consolidate peace.

Khrushchev's message was addressed to Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. It marked the coming into force of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty barring all but underground explosions.

Fresh Breeze In Atmosphere

The Soviet premier said the treaty had brought a fresh breeze into the world atmosphere and shown that no matter how complicated are modern problems, or how great the difference between the social systems of states, "we can find mutually acceptable decisions in the interests of all mankind, in the interests of maintaining peace, if we show the necessary desire."

Neither Gromyko nor the White House source would give any detail concerning the discussion on Berlin. Gromyko said only that the talks included questions "relating to European security."

There are no plans for a further Kennedy-Gromyko get together. The Russian foreign minister was in Washington briefly on a side trip from the U.N. General Assembly fall session.

3,000 Feared Dead In Dam Catastrophe

400 Bodies Found; U.S. Troops Assist In Relief Operation

BELLUNO, Italy (AP) — A catastrophic flood caused by a mammoth mountain landslide into a hydroelectric dam reservoir turned this once beautiful Alpine area into a vast mud-covered grave Thursday.

Estimates of the casualty toll ranged up to 3,000 dead.

Interior Undersecretary Giovanni Giraudo estimated that 2,300 people died when the gigantic wall of water crashed down from the Vaiont Dam reservoir into the Piave River Valley shortly before Wednesday midnight.

U.S. Army authorities helping in the recovery operations reported estimates that there were 3,000 dead.

But it was clear that it could be days before the last grim toll of those still buried under the nightmarish mantle of rock, debris and mud would finally be known.

Thursday night, Giraudo told a news conference here at Belluno, 12 miles south of the dam, that 400 bodies had been recovered so far.

Quake Blamed For Avalanche

Scientists suspected an earthquake loosed the avalanche that dropped like a rock from Mt. Toc into the deep, four-mile-long reservoir and cascaded millions of tons of water over the Vaiont hydroelectric dam onto a sleeping countryside.

Flattened villages dotted the valleys of the lower Vaiont and upper Piave rivers below the dam, a reinforced concrete, 873-foot-tall structure that is the third highest dam in the world.

Witnesses said the water first splashed about 200 yards up the mountainside and swallowed two hamlets, then roared over the dam and down the valleys toward the Adriatic Sea, sweeping away whole villages, farms, roads and railway tracks.

Bodies of villagers and animals lay half buried in mud along the banks of the Piave. Dozens of bodies floated downstream on the 12-foot crest of the flood. Several were recovered as far as 36 miles downstream.

Observatories at Basel, Chur and Trieste recorded a quake in this area of the Venetian Alps at 10:43 p.m. Wednesday.

New Slide Threatens

Spokesman for the Swiss observatories said it may have loosed the landslide, which Italian experts estimated at tens of millions of cubic yards of mud and stone. Trieste geologists said they did not know whether the quake caused the avalanche or the avalanche caused the quake.

American troops and airmen joined 10,000 Italian soldiers, police, firemen and Red Cross workers in the relief operations and a move to avert a new calamity—the helicopter transfer of isolated villagers from the area of Mt. Toc threatened by another avalanche.

"It is a work of pity more than of assistance," an Italian doctor said. "Villages have disappeared as if they never existed."

Italy opened separate judicial and technical inquiries into the tragedy to determine whether there had been negligence and to draw what a high official called "useful lessons for the future."

The country's movie houses and television network closed down. Parliament suspended its work.

The monster dam withstood the onslaught of mud and water. Only an upper corner was ripped away, apparently by the landslide.

Race Violence Keeps Students From Schools

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An outbreak of interracial violence among teen-agers in South Philadelphia has cut school attendance in the area more than a third and caused a high school football game to be played in secret.

Police are at a loss as to what caused the outbreak—it started a week ago—and say many parents apparently now are afraid to send their children to school. Most of the skirmishes, police say, have resulted in minor injuries, some by slashings with sharp objects.

For example, one boy reported two others tried to jam a can opener in his face; a 16-year-old girl said three girls grabbed her as she was walking and jabbed her wrist with a piece of glass; another girl said 10 boys accosted her and one slashed her face with a razor blade.

In each case, police said, it was either a white victim claiming he or she was attacked by a Negro or Negroes; or a Negro victim contending the attacker or attackers were white.

Police Inspector Howard Gatter said Thursday he has a assigned 100 extra policemen to the heavily populated residential area.

The fighting so far has been entirely among juveniles, most of them pupils at the area's public high schools, South Philadelphia High and Bok Vocational.

Because of the unrest, the site of a football game between Bok and South Philadelphia was shifted to a neutral field and is to be played without the benefit of spectators. Pupils were not told where or what time the game would be played.

Preparations Begin For Grain Sale To Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials busily paved the way Thursday for American wheat dealers to sell to the Soviet Union and Soviet satellite nations. And there was talk of Iron Curtain buyers asking about purchasing other farm products from this country.

That the Russians want the U.S. wheat, which President Kennedy announced Wednesday they may buy, was confirmed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Embarking on a round of talks, the Soviet official told newsmen: "We're going to buy it. The United States is going to sell."

The Russian people were told of the deal quickly by their own government. Moscow radio Thursday morning broadcast Kennedy's decision and said he had "emphasized the interest of the United States in the sale."

With U.S. wheat dealers apparently working quietly to prepare for the transaction, there came a demand from shipping unions that Kennedy nail down specifically a policy that U.S. ships carry most of the grain.

Peter M. McGavin, executive secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trade Department, noted that the President had said the wheat would be carried in available American ships, supplemented by other ships as required.

McGavin urged that definite provision be made for at least 50 per cent of the wheat to be shipped in U.S. vessels with an aim of 100 per cent.

"Unless this policy is fixed we anticipate that the Soviet Union will seek to reduce costs by arranging the transport in foreign flag ships that can offer cut rates," McGavin said.

At a news conference, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said if U.S. vessels are unable to meet the delivery deadline of April 30, 1964, the determination would be made by private traders who have their own shipping contracts.

U.S. Classified Info Sold To Soviet By GI

Sergeant Later Committed Suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Thursday night that Sgt. Jack E. Dunlap, who killed himself while under investigation, sold U.S. secrets to Soviet agents over a two-year period.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester told a news conference that the material did not include U.S. codes and ciphers—the most sensitive items handled by the super secret National Security Agency where the Army sergeant had been assigned.

"There is evidence that he did commit espionage by selling certain classified materials to agents of the Soviet Union," Sylvester said.

The Pentagon spokesman told reporters that an investigation, which developed after an employment check disclosed a record of "petty thievery and immoral conduct," led to evidence that Dunlap, an 11-year Army veteran, sold secrets "for the sole purpose of receiving a monetary reward."

The Washington Evening Star, in a copyrighted story, pictured the sergeant as a high-living horseplayer and ladies' man who received about $60,000 from Russia for some of this country's secrets.

Sylvester said Dunlap's wife had told ievnstigators the sergeant indicated that during the first year of his activity he got between $30,000 and $40,000.

The Defense Department called a news conference after it was disclosed that Dunlap, who committed suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning in his parked car last July 23, had been considered a possible security violator.

Dunlap, 35, a native of Bogalusa, La., made one previous attempt to kill himself by taking an overdose of barbiturates about a month before he finally succeeded in killing himself near Ferndale, Md.

Soviets Delay U.S. Convoys For 15 Hours

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians held up two U.S. military convoys for some 15 hours Thursday on the highway connecting West Berlin and West Germany, then allowed them to move.

The incident was the most serious on the 110-mile life line to Communist-surrounded West Berlin since 1959.

U.S. Army officials in Berlin said the trouble arose over a "procedural question."

Informants said the Soviets insisted that the troops aboard the convoys dismount from their vehicles so that Soviet guards could count them. The American officers in charge refused.

American authorities protested the holdup to the Soviet commander in East Germany and the convoys were finally allowed to move without the troops getting out of their vehicles.

Bodies Of 12 Copter Crash Victims Found

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Military authorities announced the bodies of 12 Americans killed in the crashes of two U. S. Marine helicopters Tuesday were recovered late Thursday from the Communist-infested countryside southwest of Da Nang.

Deaths of the 12—nine Marines and three Navy men—represented the heaviest loss of American lives in a single operation since the United States started its military buildup in South Viet Nam two years ago. The toll of American dead from combat and other causes has risen now to 125.

The two Marine helicopters were lost in a search for a Vietnamese fighter-bomber that crashed in an attack Tuesday on a Communist position 50 miles southwest of Da Nang, a coastal city 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

Aboard the fighter-bomber were Capt. Dean A. Wadsworth of Cotulla, Tex., and a Vietnamese officer. They are officially listed as missing.

The helicopters carried four Marine officers, five enlisted men, a Navy doctor and two Navy hospital corpsmen. The senior Marine was Capt. William T. Harris of Mesquite, Tex. Lt. Bruce C. Farrell of Westlake, Ohio, headed the Navy medical contingent.

Investigators working under the protection of armed guards sought to determine whether the copters were felled by accident or enemy action.

Completion Of 31 A-Subs Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy said Thursday that completion of all its 31 nuclear-powered submarines now under construction has been delayed—partly because of faulty workmanship in both government and private shipyards.

It said a "significant part" of the construction delay was due to stringent new safety precautions instituted after the Thresher submarine disaster which killed 129 men last April 10.

But it added that "deficiencies in equipment and workmanship are contributing factors."

"Bobby" Baker Inquiry Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate adopted by voice vote Thursday a resolution authorizing a Rules Committee investigation into the financial transactions of Robert G. Baker.

Baker, 36, resigned Monday from his $19,600-a-year post as secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority at about the time the Justice Department disclosed an FBI investigation into his outside business activities.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who told the Senate "the integrity of the United States Senate is at stake."

Rebel Center Blocked

ALGIERS (UPI)—Loyal Algerian troops Thursday sealed off the last major road leading to the rebel stronghold of Kabylia, but an army convoy attempting to enter the rebel zone was turned back by the dissidents without a fight.

House Would Bar Joint Moon Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted a $5.1-billion appropriation for the national space agency Thursday night but said none of the money could be used to cooperate with Russia in sending a man to the moon.

Its action was a rebuff to President Kennedy, who told the United Nations on Sept. 20 that the United States was willing to cooperate with Russia in a joint moon project if a suitable agreement could be reached.

The ban on a cooperative moon shot was proposed by Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., and adopted by a standing vote of 125-110. It was supported heavily by Republicans and Southern Democrats, with 198 members not voting.

Mrs. Nhu Campaigns, Almost Collapses

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu went through another grueling round of engagements Thursday, in her effort to win American public support for the government of South Viet Nam. At one point she verged on collapse.

Rising to address 700 girls at Sarah Larence College in Bronxville, Mrs. Nhu's body shook and her voice quavered. A doctor was summoned and, although he was not needed, he stood by during her speech.

The tiny, dark-eyed sister-in-law of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem told the students that "Americans should know that Viet Nam does not intend to be a beggar of anyone."

When the time is ripe, she added, "Viet Nam will be "the first to request a cut in aid."

Westy Offer Rejected

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Negotiators for Westinghouse Electric Corp. and three unions went into accelerated bargaining sessions Thursday following rejection of the latest company contract offer.

Gas, Cattle Prods Disperse Negroes

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP)—Tear gas broke up a demonstration outside a boycotted Negro high school Thursday as teen-agers stubbornly pressed their civil rights uprising.

It was the third day this week that officers heaved gas grenades and used electric cattle prods to disperse Negro youngsters.

Two Negro men were arrested, both at Iberville Parish (county) high. They were booked as James H. Payne, 28, of Birmingham, and Charles Oubre of Plaquemine.

Earlier, Police Chief Dennis Songy, 60, broke up a sit-in at a downtown restaurant staged by nine teen-agers who entered, took seats in booths and waited tensely for police to arrive.

They panicked and bolted for the door when Songy, carrying a cattle prod, entered and shouted: "All right, let's get out."

Birmingham Report Given To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy got a firsthand report Thursday night on the racial situation in Birmingham, Ala. It came from two special representatives he sent there in an effort to ease Negro-white tension.

One, former Army Secretary Kenneth Royall, said it seems now that tensions have eased a bit.

Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, former Army football coach and the second emissary, said he would attribute the improved situation to "excellent cooperation by both Negroes and whites."

Hurricane Flora Heads For Oblivion

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane Flora, killer of an estimated 3,700 and maybe more in Haiti and Cuba, flung fringe gales against weather-seasoned Bermuda Thursday as it headed for oblivion in the Atlantic.

The storm's 115 mile-an-hour top winds were expected to miss the British resort island, however. Bermuda already has weathered one hurricane with 96 m.p.h. wind gusts this year.

Dope Worth $33 Million Seized, Couple Arrested

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI) — A $33 million underworld cargo of heroin was seized Thursday, the largest haul ever confiscated on the U.S. — Mexico border. Customs agents arrested a Montreal, Canada couple.

Dapper Joseph Michel Caron, 33, who said his occupation was "salesman and gambler," and his attractive brunette wife, Marie Ida, 33, were charged with smuggling heroin into the United States and held on $250,000 bond apiece.

Customs agents, confiscated 82 pounds of the drug, "cut" and ready for distribution on the retail underworld market.

William D. Kilman, assistant regional customs supervisor from Houston, said he believed an international crime syndicate originated the heroin shipment in Europe.

The Carons were discovered, agents said, during a routine search of their car as they returned to the United States after being in Mexico for a month.

Agents found 27 pounds of heroin in plastic bags under the back seat of the Carons' 1962 car. A thorough check turned up 55 more pounds secreted behind the car's door panels.

The shapely Mrs. Caron, dressed in tight blue pedal pushers and a black sweater, broke into sobs and said with a French accent, "I don't know anything about it."

Detroit 'Mafia' Hierarchy Traced At Crime Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit's police commissioner traced the top hierarchy of "Mafia" crime there and said it raked in $150 million a year at a conservative estimate.

Its five top "dons" live in the lush suburbs of Grosse Pointe in luxurious houses, said Commissioner George C. Edwards. Four of the five were born in Sicily, and they are locked together by ancestry and intermarriage, Edwards said.

The commissioner took over the spotlight Thursday of the Senate Investigations subcommittee's hearings from Joseph Valachi, the mobster who recounted in his gravely voice his three decades in crime in five previous sessions before the committee.

Valachi's departure signaled a marked slacking off of public interest in the hearings. Nobody waited in the hall Thursday to get in.

Unlike Valachi, Edwards called the crime organization the Mafia. Valachi had told the senators his New York cocriminals never used that term but called it "Cosa Nostra" meaning "our thing."

Edwards said there have been 69 gangland murders in Detroit since 1927.

Distribution Of New Tax Forms Begins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Distribution of the 50th edition of Form 1040, the federal income tax form, started Thursday.

Tax accountants who make out returns for others were first on the list but 65 million individuals will get them soon.

Only minor changes have been made since the 1963 forms were sent out.

The most noticeable change in appearance is a window cut in the first page of the package, leaving a spot for the taxpayer's name, address and identification number.

Taxpayers in the southeastern United States will receive forms with this information preprinted in the window.

Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin emphasized that tax legislation pending in Congress would apply to income earned or received next year and would have no effect on the rates or methods of reporting 1963 income.

The ban on a cooperative moon shot was proposed by Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., and adopted by a standing vote of 125-110. It was supported heavily by Republicans and Southern Democrats, with 198 members not voting.

Preparations Begin For Grain Sale To Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials busily paved the way Thursday for American wheat dealers to sell to the Soviet Union and Soviet satellite nations. And there was talk of Iron Curtain buyers asking about purchasing other farm products from this country.

That the Russians want the U.S. wheat, which President Kennedy announced Wednesday they may buy, was confirmed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Embarking on a round of talks, the Soviet official told newsmen: "We're going to buy it. The United States is going to sell."

The Russian people were told of the deal quickly by their own government. Moscow radio Thursday morning broadcast Kennedy's decision and said he had "emphasized the interest of the United States in the sale."

With U.S. wheat dealers apparently working quietly to prepare for the transaction, there came a demand from shipping unions that Kennedy nail down specifically a policy that U.S. ships carry most of the grain.

Peter M. McGavin, executive secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trade Department, noted that the President had said the wheat would be carried in available American ships, supplemented by other ships as required.

McGavin urged that definite provision be made for at least 50 per cent of the wheat to be shipped in U.S. vessels with an aim of 100 per cent.

"Unless this policy is fixed we anticipate that the Soviet Union will seek to reduce costs by arranging the transport in foreign flag ships that can offer cut rates," McGavin said.

At a news conference, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said if U.S. vessels are unable to meet the delivery deadline of April 30, 1964, the determination would be made by private traders who have their own shipping contracts.

Mrs. Nhu Campaigns, Almost Collapses

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu went through another grueling round of engagements Thursday, in her effort to win American public support for the government of South Viet Nam. At one point she verged on collapse.

Rising to address 700 girls at Sarah Larence College in Bronxville, Mrs. Nhu's body shook and her voice quavered. A doctor was summoned and, although he was not needed, he stood by during her speech.

The tiny, dark-eyed sister-in-law of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem told the students that "Americans should know that Viet Nam does not intend to be a beggar of anyone."

When the time is ripe, she added, "Viet Nam will be "the first to request a cut in aid."

Westy Offer Rejected

U.S. Classified Info Sold To Soviet By GI

Sergeant Later Committed Suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Thursday night that Sgt. Jack E. Dunlap, who killed himself while under investigation, sold U.S. secrets to Soviet agents over a two-year period.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester told a news conference that the material did not include U.S. codes and ciphers—the most sensitive items handled by the super secret National Security Agency where the Army sergeant had been assigned.

"There is evidence that he did commit espionage by selling certain classified materials to agents of the Soviet Union," Sylvester said.

The Pentagon spokesman told reporters that an investigation, which developed after an employment check disclosed a record of "petty thievery and immoral conduct," led to evidence that Dunlap, an 11-year Army veteran, sold secrets "for the sole purpose of receiving a monetary reward."

The Washington Evening Star, in a copyrighted story, pictured the sergeant as a high-living horseplayer and ladies' man who received about $60,000 from Russia for some of this country's secrets.

Sylvester said Dunlap's wife had told ievnstigators the sergeant indicated that during the first year of his activity he got between $30,000 and $40,000.

The Defense Department called a news conference after it was disclosed that Dunlap, who committed suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning in his parked car last July 23, had been considered a possible security violator.

Dunlap, 35, a native of Bogalusa, La., made one previous attempt to kill himself by taking an overdose of barbiturates about a month before he finally succeeded in killing himself near Ferndale, Md.

Bodies Of 12 Copter Crash Victims Found

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Military authorities announced the bodies of 12 Americans killed in the crashes of two U. S. Marine helicopters Tuesday were recovered late Thursday from the Communist - infested countryside southwest of Da Nang.

Deaths of the 12—nine Marines and three Navy men—represented the heaviest loss of American lives in a single operation since the United States started its military buildup in South Viet Nam two years ago. The toll of American dead from combat and other causes has risen now to 125.

The two Marine helicopters were lost in a search for a Vietnamese fighter - bomber that crashed in an attack Tuesday on a Communist position 50 miles southwest of Da Nang, a coastal city 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

Aboard the fighter-bomber were Capt. Dean A. Wadsworth of Cotulla, Tex., and a Vietnamese officer. They are officially listed as missing.

The helicopters carried four Marine officers, five enlisted men, a Navy doctor and two Navy hospital corpsmen. The senior Marine was Capt. William T. Harris of Mesquite, Tex. Lt. Bruce C. Farrell of Westlake, Ohio, headed the Navy medical contingent.

Investigators working under the protection of armed guards sought to determine whether the copters were felled by accident or enemy action.

Gas, Cattle Prods Disperse Negroes

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP)—Tear gas broke up a demonstration outside a boycotted Negro high school Thursday as teen-agers stubbornly pressed their civil rights uprising.

It was the third day this week that officers heaved gas grenades and used electric cattle prods to disperse Negro youngsters.

Two Negro men were arrested, both at Iberville Parish (county) high. They were booked as James H. Payne, 28, of Birmingham, and Charles Oubre of Plaquemine.

Earlier, Police Chief Dennis Songy, 60, broke up a sit-in at a downtown restaurant staged by nine teen-agers who entered, took seats in booths and waited tensely for police to arrive.

They panicked and bolted for the door when Songy, carrying a cattle prod, entered and shouted: "All right, let's get out."

Soviets Delay U.S. Convoys For 15 Hours

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians held up two U.S. military convoys for some 15 hours Thursday on the highway connecting West Berlin and West Germany, then allowed them to move.

The incident was the most serious on the 110-mile life line to Communist-surrounded West Berlin since 1959.

U.S. Army officials in Berlin said the trouble arose over a "procedural question."

Informants said the Soviets insisted that the troops aboard the convoys dismount from their vehicles so that Soviet guards could count them. The American officers in charge refused.

American authorities protested the holdup to the Soviet commander in East Germany and the convoys were finally allowed to move without the troops getting out of their vehicles.

Completion Of 31 A-Subs Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy said Thursday that completion of all its 31 nuclear-powered submarines now under construction has been delayed—partly because of faulty workmanship in both government and private shipyards.

It said a "significant part" of the construction delay was due to stringent new safety precautions instituted after the Thresher submarine disaster which killed 129 men last April 10.

But it added that "deficiencies in equipment and workmanship are contributing factors."

Birmingham Report Given To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy got a firsthand report Thursday night on the racial situation in Birmingham, Ala. It came from two special representatives he sent there in an effort to ease Negro-white tension.

One, former Army Secretary Kenneth Royall, said it seems now that tensions have eased a bit.

Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, former Army football coach and the second emissary, said he would attribute the improved situation to "excellent cooperation by both Negroes and whites."

Hurricane Flora Heads For Oblivion

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane Flora, killer of an estimated 3,700 and maybe more in Haiti and Cuba, flung fringe gales against weather-seasoned Bermuda Thursday as it headed for oblivion in the Atlantic.

The storm's 115 mile - an - hour top winds were expected to miss the British resort island, however. Bermuda already has weathered one hurricane with 96 m.p.h. wind gusts this year.

"Bobby" Baker Inquiry Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate adopted by voice vote Thursday a resolution authorizing a Rules Committee investigation into the financial transactions of Robert G. Baker.

Baker, 36, resigned Monday from his $19,600-a-year post as secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority at about the time the Justice Department disclosed an FBI investigation into his outside business activities.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who told the Senate "the integrity of the United States Senate is at stake."

Rebel Center Blocked

ALGIERS (UPI)—Loyal Algerian troops Thursday sealed off the last major road leading to the rebel stronghold of Kabylia, but an army convoy attempting to enter the rebel zone was turned back by the dissidents without a fight.

Dope Worth $33 Million Seized, Couple Arrested

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI) — A $33 million underworld cargo of heroin was seized Thursday, the largest haul ever confiscated on the U.S. — Mexico border. Customs agents arrested a Montreal, Canada couple.

Dapper Joseph Michel Caron, 33, who said his occupation was "salesman and gambler," and his attractive brunette wife, Marie Ida, 33, were charged with smuggling heroin into the United States and held on $250,000 bond apiece.

Customs agents, confiscated 82 pounds of the drug, "cut" and ready for distribution on the retail underworld market.

William D. Kilman, assistant regional customs supervisor from Houston, said he believed an international crime syndicate originated the heroin shipment in Europe.

The Carons were discovered, agents said, during a routine search of their car as they returned to the United States after being in Mexico for a month.

Agents found 27 pounds of heroin in plastic bags under the back seat of the Carons' 1962 car. A thorough check turned up 55 more pounds secreted behind the car's door panels.

The shapely Mrs. Caron, dressed in tight blue pedal pushers and a black sweater, broke into sobs and said with a French accent, "I don't know anything about it."

Detroit 'Mafia' Hierarchy Traced At Crime Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit's police commissioner traced the top hierarchy of "Mafia" crime there and said it raked in $150 million a year at a conservative estimate.

Its five top "dons" live in the lush suburbs of Grosse Pointe in luxurious houses, said Commissioner George C. Edwards. Four of the five were born in Sicily, and they are locked together by ancestry and intermarriage, Edwards said.

The commissioner took over the spotlight Thursday of the Senate Investigations subcommittee's hearings from Joseph Valachi, the mobster who recounted in his gravely voice his three decades in crime in five previous sessions before the committee.

Valachi's departure signaled a marked slacking off of public interest in the hearings. Nobody waited in the hall Thursday to get in.

Unlike Valachi, Edwards called the crime organization the Mafia. Valachi had told the senators his New York cocriminals never used that term but called it "Cosa Nostra" meaning "our thing."

Edwards said there have been 69 gangland murders in Detroit since 1927.

Distribution Of New Tax Forms Begins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Distribution of the 50th edition of Form 1040, the federal income tax form, started Thursday.

Tax accountants who make out returns for others were first on the list but 65 million individuals will get them soon.

Only minor changes have been made since the 1963 forms were sent out.

The most noticeable change in appearance is a window cut in the first page of the package, leaving a spot for the taxpayer's name, address and identification number.

Taxpayers in the southeastern United States will receive forms with this information preprinted in the window.

Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin emphasized that tax legislation pending in Congress would apply to income earned or received next year and would have no effect on the rates or methods of reporting 1963 income.

U.S. Seeks Way To Widen Red Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—A suggestion by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower that the United States promote the split between the Soviet Union and Red China found an initially sympathetic response among administration foreign policy officials Thursday.

Kennedy administration sources saw the rift dividing the Communist camp, thus weakening it, as immensely advantageous to the non-Communist world.

The question remained: What specific action can Washington take—if any—to widen the division?

Administration officials have not come up with the answer yet and Eisenhower, in an interview with Associated Press reporters at his Gettysburg, Pa., office, did not supply specific suggestions.

Young Negro Demonstrator Gains Release

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—A teen-age Negro boy was released on probation Thursday from the Maryland Training School where he was committed after taking part in a racial demonstration last June.

States Atty. C. Burnham Mace said Dwight Cromwell, 15, was released on the recommendation of the training school superintendent under arrangements made about a month ago. The youth was released in custody of his grandmother on the condition that he take no part in any future demonstrations.

Judge E. McMaster Duer, sitting in Dorchester County Juvenile Court, also ordered that Cromwell remain on probation for the remainder of the school year.

Mace said Thursday's closed hearing had nothing to do with Tuesday's order issued by the Maryland Court of Appeals which sent the case back to the lower court for review.

Cromwell and Reva Dinez White, 15, were both committed to state training schools after their arrest in racial disturbances. They were judged juvenile delinquents by the court. Miss White still remains in a training school.

Cambridge Negroes demonstrated for the release of the two youngsters as well as for racial reforms, contending that the sole reason the pair were found to be delinquents was their participation in the demonstration.

S. Africa Plea Rebuffed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The big Asian-African bloc rammed a resolution through the U.N. special political committee late Thursday demanding that South Africa call off the trial of a group of African nationalists charged with plotting armed revolt. It sought their immediate freedom.

By a vote of 87-1 with 9 abstentions, the committee approved what amounted to a sharp rebuff of an earlier plea in the 111-nation assembly by Gerhard Jooste, South African foreign affairs secretary, for a fresh U.N. look at his country's racial problems.

Portugal cast the lone no vote. Those abstaining were the United States, Britain, Canada, France, Australia, Belgium, the Netherlands, New Zealand and Panama.

South Africa boycotted the committee meeting.

The resolution will be presented Friday to the assembly, where it has more than enough support to assure its approval by the required two-thirds majority.

'Rocky' Hits JFK On Cuban Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller hit President Kennedy's handling of the Cuban situation Thursday night and said the security of the Western Hemisphere "has been seriously jeopardized."

The potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year said "two momentous opportunities to rid the hemisphere of communism in Cuba have already been lost."

Rockefeller, guest of honor at a dinner sponsored by the Avenue of the Americas Association, said in a prepared address:

"The failure of President Kennedy to prevent or at least retrieve the Bay of Pigs disaster has left us with a legacy of lost faith on the part of the peoples of Latin America."

There are 27,000 retail building material dealers in the United States with annual sales totaling $10 billion.

State Pension Plan Deductions To Drop

BALTIMORE (AP)—The take-home pay of Maryland state employes will be boosted by .8 to 2.3 per cent next year because of smaller deductions for their pension program.

The Taxation and Fiscal Committee of the Legislative Council disclosed Thursday that the change has been approved by the pension trustees. The council is the between-sessions screening arm of the Legislature.

Hagerstown Votes Nov. 5 On 'Omnibus' Bond Issue

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Residents will go to the polls Nov. 5 to accept or reject an "omnibus" bond issue of $3,672,000.

While they were being informed of the referendum date, City Comptroller Charles Wandell advised that there will be a deficit for 1963 operations. He said he couldn't say how much the deficit will be because the 1962 financial statement had not been received from the city auditor.

Because it contains a little bit of everything, two of the five councilmen predicted defeat of the bond issue.

The issue includes $2,272,000 for a second water line from Hagerstown to the Potomac River and a waterline to Maugansville, a community near Hagerstown. Also covered by the bond proposal are the city's $609,000 share of the urban renewal program cost and $337,000 to complete Burhans Boulevard, named after Mayor Winslow H. Burhans.

City Council lopped off another $300,000 for projects the mayor wanted included in the bond issue.

Burhans said unless funds for the waterline to Maugansville were approved by the voters, the $372,000 for it would have to come out of tax revenues. This would equal 37 cents on the city property atx rate, he said.

The mayor said a source of $337,000 to complete the road named for him would have to be found if the voters don't approve this portion of the bond issue. Burhans said the city is committed to the State Roads Commission on this project.

At present, both ends of the highway are complete, but there is a big gap in the middle. The middle section must be completed before the road can be used.

The $609,000 for urban renewal, if approved, is to be matched with some $1.3 in federal funds.

Jayncees Outline Projects For Year

The Jayncees received chairmen reports and had a guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting conducted by Mrs. Richard Cover Wednesday evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Robert Hutcheson, president of the Jaycees, spoke on his group's projects for the year. They are the Home Show, to be held October 16-19 at Searstown; the "Christmas Shopping Tour" and the "Paul Harvey DSA Boss Night."

Tentative plans of the chairmen were presented. Mrs. Jean Krampf, civic chairman, discussed assisting Allegany Community College, Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets, the Christmas shopping tour and continuing the annual project of clothing two girl graduates. Mrs. Roy Hartell, social chairman, plans a Cupid Caper dance February 15 at the Shrine Club, with music by the Gentlemen of Note, and awarding two tickets to the Worlds Fair. Mrs. Bruce Durrett, budget and finance chairman, plans a Christmas bazaar, a buffet dinner and style show, and a dart booth at the Jaycee Home Show. Other reports were given by Mrs. Thomas Burton, program; Mrs. William McKee, membership, and Mrs. Frank Pluta, hospitality.

Concluding the meeting, members played "crazy bridge."

Hobby Displayed At Open House

Two hobbies will feature the exhibit at the open house at History House, 218 Washington Street, tomorrow from 1 until 4 p. m. One will be about 100 of the collection of 300 inkwells and pens of Robert E. Boal, Westernport; the other ceramics made by members of the Queen City Mud Hens. The public is invited.

Besides many novelty inkwells, items to be seen include a brass-bound mahogany lap desk used on the Erie Canal, 1820-1840; art glass wells, satin glass and Tiffany; an 1890 United States bisque well and one 1840 French bisque well; porcelain wells include two Royal Copenhagen registered, one Royal Doulton reservoir type and one unmarked Danish, and one 1840 statue of a Chinese woman with vase, made in France and decorated in China.

A group of brass wells includes one large Westminister Abbey, 1830-1840, two Waterford bottles; four Danish, 15 American and many unidentified. There also will be travelers' inkwells, one Civil War and four Victorian; seven animal inkwells from 1870 to the 1890s; five sterling silver and crystal wells and stands; Cloissone, with one brass and marble; 10 iron and glass; a collection of eight early ink bottles; five copper wells; ten pewter and Brittania wells. There also will be a collection of pens from 1880 and 1890s. Although most of the inkwells are from the Victorian period, about 10 are from the Civil War period or before. They date from the 1830s to 1930s.

The ceramics include a green goddess done in Italian antique glaze; a pair of quail in wood stain made up in arrangement of dried flowers for the TV; several pieces of painted china, including a three-tiered snack dish and tea set; several painted tiles and pieces done by Mrs. Elizabeth Chaney in shows in New Jersey and a studio in Altoona. Mrs. Roberta Powers will show four pairs of Oriental figurines done in stains, several leaf dishes in different colors and a roster and hen lamp. Mrs. Irene Critzman will exhibit a ceramic candle arrangement with Madonna, a lamp with two lace figurines, and a wall plate of birds and flowers. Mrs. Thelma Niland will display several tile panels, some American craft plates and some pieces done in china paint technique.

Mrs. Robert M. King, Mrs. Emma Everstine, Mr. Boal, Mrs. Chaney, Mrs. Critzman, Mrs. Powers and Mrs. Niland will be hosts for the day.

Special interest was shown in a silver spoon warmer, a pewter communion cup, ladles, fish server, marrow spoon, "hare and hound" napkin rings and early 1800 pewter plate displayed Wednesday. Hostesses were Mrs. Randolph Millholland, Mrs. William L. Wilson, Mrs. Owen Hitchins, Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. Mary Johns Funaro, Mrs. William Walsh and Mrs. Everstine.

The LaVale Firemen's Auxiliary will meet at 8 tonight at the fire hall.

HEADS TAG SALE — A tag sale to raise funds for the welfare and hospital work of the Veteransof World War I Barracks 1125 and Ladies Auxiliary will be held tomorrow in Cumberland, with Mrs. Chloe Reynolds, above, chairman. Both groups make several trips a month to Baker VA Center. Tag day was started in 1958 under the administration of Mrs. Reynolds and Walter Hensel. The sale will begin at 11 a. m. Mrs. Catherine Wilson is co-chairman.

Mrs. Cook Elected By State WCTU

Mrs. John S. Cook Sr. was elected second vice president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Maryland yesterday as the organization ended a two-day convention in Frederick. Mrs. Melvin E. Lederer, Reisterstown, was re-elected president.

Others elected are Mrs. Lewis Shannahan, Baltimore, first vice president; Mrs. Alma F. Swartzback, Baltimore, corresponding secretary; Miss Margaret E. Young, Frederick, recording secretary, and Miss Leola Phelps, Baltimore, treasurer.

Rev. Robert F. Woodward, pastor of First Baptist Church, Frederick, guest speaker, warned against a "negative attitude" toward drinking and said, "We complain about the youngsters, the places they go, the drinking and sex, but we do not provide anything for them in the church. It is tragic we do so little."

The longest Swiss alpenhorns, which are of wooden construction, attain 15 feet in length and are of pine.

Outside the Milky Way galaxy, there exist 1,000,000 million other galaxies. These range in sizes up to 200 thousand light years in diameter.

Planets are bodies (including the Earth) which belong to the solar system and which revolve around the sun in definite orbits.

Couple Has Informal Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, 801 Edgewood Drive, were guests at a surprise dinner Tuesday evening in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary. Typifying the wedding dinner served to them 50 years ago by the late Mr. and Mrs. George Gore of Park Street, the menu featured pork and sauerkraut.

The centerpiece for the dinner table was gilded driftwood with autumn flowers, flanked by golden candles. Mr. Bennett presented his wife with a nosegay of straw flowers, surrounded by bows of gold ribbon.

Sharing the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were their daughters, Mrs. Hazel Baer, Hagerstown; Theresa Miller, city; Mrs. Lorraine Methzler, Tampa, Fla., a son and daughter-in-law, Frank A. and Beatrice Bennett, and a cousin, Chester Roland, city.

Their five children and 15 grandchildren attended the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Sunday in celebration of the anniversary.

St. Patrick's Mothers Club "Fall Fantasy of Fashion" and card party will be held at 8 tonight at the Elks Club. Fashions are by Sears.

The Maryland State Union meeting of the BRT Auxiliary will be held at the YMCA today, beginning at 11 a. m.

Xi Beta Plans Masquerade

Xi Beta Exemplar, Beta Sigma Phi discussed City Council activities and decided to have the next meeting in the form of a masquerade. Plans were formulated at the meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Helene Schultz, Columbia Avenue.

The masquerade party will be October 22, at the home of Mrs. Alameda Poole, 1808 Bedford Street. The inter-chapter buffet will be October 23 at the Woman's Civic Club house. The annual fall pledge service will be November 7.

The program for the evening consisted of a talk by Grover Long, a member of the Toastmasters Club. His topic was, "What Is Life?"

A gift was won by Miss Eleanor Albright. Others attending were Mrs. Juanita Brinsmade, Miss Dorothy Campbell, Mrs. Carolyn Griffin, Miss Martha Lee Heron, Miss Margaret Lester and Mrs. Josephine Miltenberger.

BPW To Hold Luncheon Sunday

Concluding the observance of National Business Women's Week, the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club will give a luncheon at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club on Sunday at 1 o'clock. Emphasizing the national theme of "responsibility of full partnership," the program will center on "Our Historical Heritage."

Mrs. Kathryn Greever, will be the narrator for the slides depicting scenes from Plymouth, Sturbridge, Williamsburg and Washington. Miss Edith Scharf will give the invocation, and Mrs. Freida Massara will extend greetings as president.

Floral arrangements will be made by Mrs. Jane Robb. Notebook favors will be given.

Mrs. Greever, Mrs. Robb, and Miss Virginia Vogel compose the luncheon committee. Miss Mary Jo Logsdon is general chairman.

The next meeting of the club will be held on October 22 at 5:45 p. m. at Central YMCA. Miss Helen Beck, legislation chairman, and Mrs. Thelma Fatkin, civic participation chairman, will be in charge of the program, a panel discussion on "The Discriminating Male."

Social Chart

The Flintstone Homemakers Club will have the Piney Plains Club as guests at the meeting tonight for a demonstration by Mrs. Forrest Snider, county art chairman. It will be held at the church, preceded by a card workshop at 7 p. m.

Victor Heisey Heads Retired Teachers Group

The Retired Teachers Association of Allegany County presented and accepted a constitution at the fall luncheon meeting yesterday. It was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, with Harold Wickard presiding. The group was organized last October.

Victor Heisey was elected president and Mrs. Ellen McKenzie, treasurer. Holdover officers are Miss Irene Lapp, vice president, and Miss Sara Wright, secretary. Committee reports were given.

Entertainment consisted of a musical program, with vocal solos by W. F. Plummer, Frostburg, and group singing. The next meeting will be in May. Fifty members attended.

Jayncees Outline Projects For Year

The Jayncees received chairmen reports and had a guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting conducted by Mrs. Richard Cover Wednesday evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Robert Hutcheson, president of the Jaycees, spoke on his group's projects for the year. They are the Home Show, to be held October 16-19 at Searstown; the "Christmas Shopping Tour" and the "Paul Harvey DSA Boss Night."

Tentative plans of the chairmen were presented. Mrs. Jean Krampf, civic chairman, discussed assisting Allegany Community College, Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets, the Christmas shopping tour and continuing the annual project of clothing two girl graduates. Mrs. Roy Hartell, social chairman, plans a Cupid Caper dance February 15 at the Shrine Club, with music by the Gentlemen of Note, and awarding two tickets to the Worlds Fair. Mrs. Bruce Durrett, budget and finance chairman, plans a Christmas bazaar, a buffet dinner and style show, and a dart booth at the Jaycee Home Show. Other reports were given by Mrs. Thomas Burton, program; Mrs. William McKee, membership, and Mrs. Frank Pluta, hospitality.

Concluding the meeting, members played "crazy bridge."

Hobby Displayed At Open House

Two hobbies will feature the exhibit at the open house at History House, 218 Washington Street, tomorrow from 1 until 4 p. m. One will be about 100 of the collection of 300 inkwells and pens of Robert E. Boal, Westernport; the other ceramics made by members of the Queen City Mud Hens. The public is invited.

Besides many novelty inkwells, items to be seen include a brass-bound mahogany lap desk used on the Erie Canal, 1820-1840; art glass wells, satin glass and Tiffany; an 1890 United States bisque well and one 1840 French bisque well; porcelain wells include two Royal Copenhagen registered, one Royal Doulton reservoir type and one unmarked Danish, and one 1840 statue of a Chinese woman with vase, made in France and decorated in China.

A group of brass wells includes one large Westminister Abbey, 1830-1840, two Waterford bottles; four Danish, 15 American and many unidentified. There also will be travelers' inkwells, one Civil War and four Victorian; seven animal inkwells from 1870 to the 1890s; five sterling silver and crystal wells and stands; Cloissone, with one brass and marble; 10 iron and glass; a collection of eight early ink bottles; five copper wells; ten pewter and Brittania wells. There also will be a collection of pens from 1880 and 1890s. Although most of the inkwells are from the Victorian period, about 10 are from the Civil War period or before. They date from the 1830s to 1930s.

The ceramics include a green goddess done in Italian antique glaze; a pair of quail in wood stain made up in arrangement of dried flowers for the TV; several pieces of painted china, including a three-tiered snack dish and tea set; several painted tiles and pieces done by Mrs. Elizabeth Chaney in shows in New Jersey and a studio in Altoona. Mrs. Roberta Powers will show four pairs of Oriental figurines done in stains, several leaf dishes in different colors and a roster and hen lamp. Mrs. Irene Critzman will exhibit a ceramic candle arrangement with Madonna, a lamp with two lace figurines, and a wall plate of birds and flowers. Mrs. Thelma Niland will display several tile panels, some American craft plates and some pieces done in china paint technique.

Mrs. Robert M. King, Mrs. Emma Everstine, Mr. Boal, Mrs. Chaney, Mrs. Critzman, Mrs. Powers and Mrs. Niland will be hosts for the day.

Special interest was shown in a silver spoon warmer, a pewter communion cup, ladles, fish server, marrow spoon, "hare and hound" napkin rings and early 1800 pewter plate displayed Wednesday. Hostesses were Mrs. Randolph Millholland, Mrs. William L. Wilson, Mrs. Owen Hitchins, Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. Mary Johns Funaro, Mrs. William Walsh and Mrs. Everstine.

The LaVale Firemen's Auxiliary will meet at 8 tonight at the fire hall.

Mrs. Cook Elected By State WCTU

Mrs. John S. Cook Sr. was elected second vice president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Maryland yesterday as the organization ended a two-day convention in Frederick. Mrs. Melvin E. Lederer, Reisterstown, was re-elected president.

Others elected are Mrs. Lewis Shannahan, Baltimore, first vice president; Mrs. Alma F. Swartzback, Baltimore, corresponding secretary; Miss Margaret E. Young, Frederick, recording secretary, and Miss Leola Phelps, Baltimore, treasurer.

Rev. Robert F. Woodward, pastor of First Baptist Church, Frederick, guest speaker, warned against a "negative attitude" toward drinking and said, "We complain about the youngsters, the places they go, the drinking and sex, but we do not provide anything for them in the church. It is tragic we do so little."

The longest Swiss alpenhorns, which are of wooden construction, attain 15 feet in length and are of pine.

Outside the Milky Way galaxy, there exist 1,000,000 million other galaxies. These range in sizes up to 200 thousand light years in diameter.

Planets are bodies (including the Earth) which belong to the solar system and which revolve around the sun in definite orbits.

HEADS TAG SALE — A tag sale to raise funds for the welfare and hospital work of the Veteransof World War I Barracks 1125 and Ladies Auxiliary will be held tomorrow in Cumberland, with Mrs. Chloe Reynolds, above, chairman. Both groups make several trips a month to Baker VA Center. Tag day was started in 1958 under the administration of Mrs. Reynolds and Walter Hensel. The sale will begin at 11 a. m. Mrs. Catherine Wilson is co-chairman.

Couple Has Informal Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, 801 Edgewood Drive, were guests at a surprise dinner Tuesday evening in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary. Typifying the wedding dinner served to them 50 years ago by the late Mr. and Mrs. George Gore of Park Street, the menu featured pork and sauerkraut.

The centerpiece for the dinner table was gilded driftwood with autumn flowers, flanked by golden candles. Mr. Bennett presented his wife with a nosegay of straw flowers, surrounded by bows of gold ribbon.

Sharing the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were their daughters, Mrs. Hazel Baer, Hagerstown; Theresa Miller, city; Mrs. Lorraine Methzler, Tampa, Fla., a son and daughter-in-law, Frank A. and Beatrice Bennett, and a cousin, Chester Roland, city.

Their five children and 15 grandchildren attended the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Sunday in celebration of the anniversary.

St. Patrick's Mothers Club "Fall Fantasy of Fashion" and card party will be held at 8 tonight at the Elks Club. Fashions are by Sears.

The Maryland State Union meeting of the BRT Auxiliary will be held at the YMCA today, beginning at 11 a. m.

Xi Beta Plans Masquerade

Xi Beta Exemplar, Beta Sigma Phi discussed City Council activities and decided to have the next meeting in the form of a masquerade. Plans were formulated at the meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Helene Schultz, Columbia Avenue.

The masquerade party will be October 22, at the home of Mrs. Alameda Poole, 1808 Bedford Street. The inter-chapter buffet will be October 23 at the Woman's Civic Club house. The annual fall pledge service will be November 7.

The program for the evening consisted of a talk by Grover Long, a member of the Toastmasters Club. His topic was, "What Is Life?"

A gift was won by Miss Eleanor Albright. Others attending were Mrs. Juanita Brinsmade, Miss Dorothy Campbell, Mrs. Carolyn Griffin, Miss Martha Lee Heron, Miss Margaret Lester and Mrs. Josephine Miltenberger.

BPW To Hold Luncheon Sunday

Concluding the observance of National Business Women's Week, the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club will give a luncheon at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club on Sunday at 1 o'clock. Emphasizing the national theme of "responsibility of full partnership," the program will center on "Our Historical Heritage."

Mrs. Kathryn Greever, will be the narrator for the slides depicting scenes from Plymouth, Sturbridge, Williamsburg and Washington. Miss Edith Scharf will give the invocation, and Mrs. Freida Massara will extend greetings as president.

Floral arrangements will be made by Mrs. Jane Robb. Notebook favors will be given.

Mrs. Greever, Mrs. Robb, and Miss Virginia Vogel compose the luncheon committee. Miss Mary Jo Logsdon is general chairman.

The next meeting of the club will be held on October 22 at 5:45 p. m. at Central YMCA. Miss Helen Beck, legislation chairman, and Mrs. Thelma Fatkin, civic participation chairman, will be in charge of the program, a panel discussion on "The Discriminating Male."

Social Chart

The Flintstone Homemakers Club will have the Piney Plains Club as guests at the meeting tonight for a demonstration by Mrs. Forrest Snider, county art chairman. It will be held at the church, preceded by a card workshop at 7 p. m.

Victor Heisey Heads Retired Teachers Group

The Retired Teachers Association of Allegany County presented and accepted a constitution at the fall luncheon meeting yesterday. It was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, with Harold Wickard presiding. The group was organized last October.

Victor Heisey was elected president and Mrs. Ellen McKenzie, treasurer. Holdover officers are Miss Irene Lapp, vice president, and Miss Sara Wright, secretary. Committee reports were given.

Entertainment consisted of a musical program, with vocal solos by W. F. Plummer, Frostburg, and group singing. The next meeting will be in May. Fifty members attended.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Cummings is returning to the weekly television series war in a show, one which he is secretly preparing out of range of video producers who might steal his idea.

The entertainment business is riddled with intrigue when it comes to story ideas. One producer's idea could easily end up in another's show.

Whenever an actor gets a new show format in the works, he's reluctant to discuss the facts with anybody but persons directly involved. Somebody else might steal the show.

Cummings, who has been in three regular series, hinted that one of his ideas has already been stolen by another video producer.

"I've not planned exactly what I'll be in the new show," Cummings said. "But I have physically, spiritually or philosophically that is salable.

"First of all, I have five children, all hams, and they range in age from 6 to 17. I have been presenting all my ideas to writers and have asked them to make a suit that fits this situation, a man with five kids."

It's obvious from Cummings remarks that he has a family situation series in mind. If he has, he'll have to find a wife. His youngsters would work on the new show, but Mrs. Cummings has declined.

Cummings referred often to the character he will play as a "suit." He insists it must fit.

He had an ill-fated series last year. In that situation, he said his suit didn't fit. The character wasn't right for Bob Cummings.

"He had no roots," Bob said. "He was a butterfly. He just spent a lot of money. I don't like a person like that.

"So often a writer sits down and writes an idea but it doesn't fit the star. My show was going to become a grist mill of discarded scripts. Some of them were good scripts but they didn't fit me."

Of the three television shows that he's done, Cummings hit the jackpot dramatically and financially playing a photographer. The show ran for years before going out of production. It's still being shown in some parts of the world.

Cummings, who recently completed a role in the movie "What a Way to Go," said that his decision to act in another series has stirred up some interest among television's brass.

"Anytime you have a track record like 'The Bob Cumming's Show' had, all you have to do is let people know you want to do another series," he said. "There is a demand for this show."

As a well-scarred veteran of television, Cummings is not unaware of the risks involved in getting a new program on the air.

"To begin a series takes everything you, your family and your banker have," he concluded.

U.S. Missile Strength Growing, LeMay Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, said Thursday that the nation's missile punch is getting stronger every day.

LeMay told a convention of the American Bankers Association (ABA) that this is because of completion of the Atlas program, further progress on the Titan missile and development of an improved version of the Minuteman.

He also said that construction of hard missile sites—those capable of withstanding a nuclear attack—was "going ahead at a rapid rate."

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin told the city's urban renewal agency Thursday to prepare to relocate about 12,000 residents who will be displaced by construction of two expressways.

The mayor promised the city would do a responsible job of relocation, adjusting construction schedules if necessary. An estimated 4,000 homes will be demolished to make way for the expressways.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—State sales tax revenues during September totaled $8,421,506, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported Thursday.

This was an increase of more than 7 per cent over the same month last year.

The motor vehicle tax during September brought in $5,761,567 after refunds and administration costs were deducted. This was an increase of nearly 3 per cent over September, 1962.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An exporter of corks told Congress Thursday he has to pay more than three times as much to send his product to the British Isles as a British producer is charged to ship to the United States.

Arthur B. Dodge Jr., vice president of the Dodge Cork Co. of Lancaster, Pa., said his small business could foresee $100,000 more export sales annually if ocean freight rates were more nearly equal.

"We can reckon that a thousand other small businesses . . . could similarly improve their export sales," he told the Senate-House Economic Committee.

The committee is studying inequality in freight rates, with special emphasis on the effect on the United States' unfavorable payments balance.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A committee has begun solicting contributions for erection of a bronze monument to James Cardinal Gibbons, Baltimore's best known Catholic prelate.

A seated figure of the cardinal is planned for an appropriate site in the city, possibly Charles Center or one of the city's parks. Miss Betti Richard, New York sculptress whose works include busts of V. K. Krishna Menon and Dag Hammarskjold, has been assigned tentatively to design the figure.

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — Some property owners are appealing to the Court of Appeals a ruling that trial of a condemnation case involving their lots on Assateague Island cannot be moved to another county.

Judge Godfrey Child denied the request for a change of venue. William G. Kerbin Jr. of Snow Hill, attorney for the property owners, said Thursday the appeal has postponed the trial. It had been scheduled to open Wednesday.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Samuel Stewart, 33, was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment Thursday for armed robbery. A murder charge against him was dropped.

Judge Anselm Sodaro, who imposed the sentence, also approved dropping the murder charge which had been open against Stewart for 1½ years.

Stewart had been charged jointly with William Joseph James in the March, 1962, slaying of a Baltimore liquor dealer and one of his clerks. Walter N. Wiggins, recently convicted of the fatal holdup, has been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Diversifies Firm

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) —The Southern California Petroleum Corp. Thursday announced it has acquired the Marinello Co., a system of beauty operator training schools, for an undisclosed sum of cash and notes.

The purchase was described as the latest in a series of diversification moves.

Sickles Charges "Open Space" Plan Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — A directive recommended by a House committee would discriminate against Maryland and Virginia suburbs, Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Md., said Thursday.

Sickles referred in a House speech to a section of the House Appropriations Committee's report on money to operate independent offices.

"The section directs that the Washington area to be denied grants next year under the 'open space program', authorized by the Housing Act on 1961," Sickles said.

"This directive, if carried out by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, would discriminate against the Maryland and Virginia suburbs in the national capital region."

Sickles said the report made no mention of at least two other metropolitan areas which have received as much or more money under the program.

"If the funds under this program are to be apportioned among the various metropolitan areas, standards should be written into the housing act for this purpose," he said.

"It is extremely unfair to single out one of the fastest growing regions in the country where there is a great need now to preserve open space land, and deny that area the right to participate in a national program because it has the foresight to provide the local funds needed to preserve open spaces."

Sickles said Maryland jurisdictions have put up $5,583,097 for use with the federal grants.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin told the city's urban renewal agency Thursday to prepare to relocate about 12,000 residents who will be displaced by construction of two expressways.

The mayor promised the city would do a responsible job of relocation, adjusting construction schedules if necessary. An estimated 4,000 homes will be demolished to make way for the expressways.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—State sales tax revenues during September totaled $8,421,506, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported Thursday.

This was an increase of more than 7 per cent over the same month last year.

The motor vehicle tax during September brought in $5,761,567 after refunds and administration costs were deducted. This was an increase of nearly 3 per cent over September, 1962.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An exporter of corks told Congress Thursday he has to pay more than three times as much to send his product to the British Isles as a British producer is charged to ship to the United States.

Arthur B. Dodge Jr., vice president of the Dodge Cork Co. of Lancaster, Pa., said his small business could foresee $100,000 more export sales annually if ocean freight rates were more nearly equal.

"We can reckon that a thousand other small businesses . . . could similarly improve their export sales," he told the Senate-House Economic Committee.

The committee is studying inequality in freight rates, with special emphasis on the effect on the United States' unfavorable payments balance.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A committee has begun soliciting contributions for erection of a bronze monument to James Cardinal Gibbons, Baltimore's best known Catholic prelate.

A seated figure of the cardinal is planned for an appropriate site in the city, possibly Charles Center or one of the city's parks. Miss Betti Richard, New York sculptress whose works include busts of V. K. Krishna Menon and Dag Hammarskjold, has been assigned tentatively to design the figure.

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — Some property owners are appealing to the Court of Appeals a ruling that trial of a condemnation case involving their lots on Assateague Island cannot be moved to another county.

Judge Godfrey Child denied the request for a change of venue. William G. Kerbin Jr. of Snow Hill, attorney for the property owners, said Thursday the appeal has postponed the trial. It had been scheduled to open Wednesday.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Samuel Stewart, 33, was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment Thursday for armed robbery. A murder charge against him was dropped.

Judge Anselm Sodaro, who imposed the sentence, also approved dropping the murder charge which had been open against Stewart for 1½ years.

Stewart had been charged jointly with William Joseph James in the March, 1962, slaying of a Baltimore liquor dealer and one of his clerks. Walter N. Wiggins, recently convicted of the fatal holdup, has been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Diversifies Firm

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) —The Southern California Petroleum Corp. Thursday announced it has acquired the Marinello Co., a system of beauty operator training schools, for an undisclosed sum of cash and notes.

The purchase was described as the latest in a series of diversification moves.

Sickles Charges "Open Space" Plan Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — A directive recommended by a House committee would discriminate against Maryland and Virginia suburbs, Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Md., said Thursday.

Sickles referred in a House speech to a section of the House Appropriations Committee's report on money to operate independent offices.

"The section directs that the Washington area to be denied grants next year under the 'open space program', authorized by the Housing Act on 1961," Sickles said.

"This directive, if carried out by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, would discriminate against the Maryland and Virginia suburbs in the national capital region."

Sickles said the report made no mention of at least two other metropolitan areas which have received as much or more money under the program.

"If the funds under this program are to be apportioned among the various metropolitan areas, standards should be written into the housing act for this purpose," he said.

"It is extremely unfair to single out one of the fastest growing regions in the country where there is a great need now to preserve open space land, and deny that area the right to participate in a national program because it has the foresight to provide the local funds needed to preserve open spaces."

Sickles said Maryland jurisdictions have put up $5,583,097 for use with the federal grants.

Cancels Election

Wamba Caravan 89, Order of The Alhambra, has canceled its election of officers meeting scheduled for this Saturday. Joseph Divico, commander, said no date has been set for the election.

LaSalle Senior Praised For Score On Merit Test

Lawrence Grabenstein, a senior at LaSalle High School, has been honored for his high performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Brother Jeremy, FSC, principal, said Grabenstein has received a letter of commendation for his score.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Grabenstein Jr., 604 Greene Street, the local student is a member of the National Honor Society, was president of his Junior Class, president of the Student Council at LaSalle and is co-editor of his school newspaper, The Torch.

Grabenstein, who entered LaSalle on a scholarship from SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School, represented LaSalle this summer at Boys State at the University of Maryland.

This weekend he is scheduled to represent the local school at a press conference in Philadelphia.

He is a carrier for The Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times and participates in various sports at LaSalle.

John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, said: "The Cumberland student is among those who did not reach the status of semi-finalists in the current merit program, but who are so capable that we wish to call attention to their achievement and academic promise."

The students who receive letters and the semifinalists who do not win Merit Scholarships are considered for certain other scholarships that are offered through the facilities of the program.

About two per cent of all school children need some special training because they are mentally retarded.

Local Bank Will Participate In Student Loan Program

First-Second National Bank and Trust Company yesterday announced its participation in the national United Student Aid Fund under which it will make low-cost loans to college students.

William S. Jenkins, president, said First-Second is the first bank in Cumberland to participate in the program, which is open to students in the Allegany County area.

Under the USAF program, Jenkins explained, undergraduate students from this region may borrow up to $1,000 a year, and graduate students $2,000 a year, to a total of $4,000 to complete their education.

Top scholarship is not required, he continued, and the student need only be making normal progress toward graduation. Jenkins said the loans, issued to the students themselves, will be repaid following graduation.

The procedure to be followed is that the student make application to the officer in charge of student loans at the college, with the officer then referring the application to First-Second National Bank and Trust Company.

There are approximately 500 colleges and universities participating in the ASAF program, Jenkins said, adding that the list includes five in Maryland. They are the University of Maryland, Washington College, St. John's College, Maryland Institute and Goucher College.

In announcing participation in the program Jenkins said "We are delighted to bring this urgently needed help to our deserving young men and women. Many of the young people in this region must meet a large portion of their college costs on their own. We are proud to make it possible for students to help themselves. The self reliance and confidence they develop may prove as valuable as their academic accomplishments.

First-Second already has received some inquiries concerning the program, Jenkins said, although no official applications have been received from colleges or universities.

Deaths And Funeral Notices In The Tri-State Area

MRS. EDWARD L. MUNSON

HANCOCK — Mrs. Clara Margaret (Boden) Munson, 76, widow of Edward L. Munson, of Hancock, died yesterday morning at the Gateway Nursing Home here after a long illness.

She was a native of Piney Grove, Md., a daughter of the late Charles T. and Mary Isabelle (Mann) Boden.

Mrs. Munson was a member of Buck Valley Christian Church.

Surviving are one son, Lynn Munson, RD 1, Hancock; one daughter, Mrs. Alvah N. Bishop, Cumberland; two brothers, David Boden, Little Orleans, and Frank, Artemas, Pa., eight grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

The body is at the Grove Funeral Home here, where friends will be received today and tomorrow from 7 to 9 p. m. and a service held Sunday at 1 p. m.

Rev. Richard Newkirk will officiate and burial will be in Warfordsburg Presbyterian Cemetery.

RAY LUTTRELL

ROMNEY — Ray Luttrell, 62, prominent in Masonic and Baptist activities, died Tuesday in National Institute of Health, Bethesda.

Mr. Luttrell, who resided on Bolton Street, had served in 1929, 1934, 1935, 1936 and 1945 as master of Clinton Lodge 86, AF&AM, and had been deputy district grand master in 1938.

He was a member of Romney Baptist Church, in which he had held most lay offices. He also served on the executive board of the West Virginia Baptist Convention.

He was born in Romney, August 26, 1901, the son of the late Robert P. and Louise (Harmison) Luttrell.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lillian (Haines) Luttrell; one sister, Mrs. Irvin Walker, Silver Spring, and Robert Luttrell, Washington.

The body is at the Shaffer Funeral Home.

Services will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. (EST) in Romney Baptist Church with Rev. Warren Shields officiating. Interment will be in Indian Mound Cemetery.

MISS HELLEN GIBSON

Miss Hellen Mae Gibson, 77, died Wednesday night in Allegany County Infirmary. She formerly lived at 218½ Glenn Street.

Miss Gibson was a native of Scranton, Kan., a daughter of the late Thomas W. and Anna B. (Scott) Gibson and was a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Margaret Ravenscraft and Mrs. Anna B. McVeigh, both of this city; Mrs. Ethel Frum, Wierton, W. Va., and Mrs. Florence Fest, Elizabeth, N. J.

A funeral service will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Stein Funeral Home. Rev. Emil G. Teyssier, assistant pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will officiate and burial will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

MRS. DAVIS FUNERAL

FROSTBURG — A funeral service for Mrs. Ruth L. Davis, 67, of 15 Welsh Street, who died Wednesday, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Durst Funeral Home.

Rev. Louis L. Emerick will officiate and interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park. Friends will be received at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Pallbearers will be George Kennedy, Elmer Smith, John Rafferty, Edgar Grose, Lawrence Barry and Charles McKenzie.

MRS. MARY E. GASPARI

Mrs. Mary E. (Molhe) Gaspari, of 308 South Smallwood Street, Baltimore, died yesterday at her home. She was a former resident of this city.

Born February 5, 1878 in Levels, W. Va., she was a daughter of the late John W. and Ensey (McBride) Croston.

Surviving are one son, Russell W. Gaspari, Baltimore and four grandchildren.

The body will be brought to the Scarpelli Funeral Home today.

A funeral service will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at Fairview Christian Church. Rev. Walter Twigg will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery, at Inglesmith, Pa.

CURTIS W. ROBINSON

KEYSER, W. VA. — Curtis William Robinson, 103 West Street, McCoole, died yesterday morning at his home. He was 71.

A retired carman, Mr. Robinson was an employe of the B&O Railroad for 50 years.

A native of Dawson, he was a son of the late John and Mary Francis (Ravenscroft) Robinson. He was a member of the First Methodist Church, Keyser and the JR OUAM council-at-large.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Marjory (Liller) Robinson, he is survived by two daughters, Miss Georgenna J. Robinson, McCoole and Mrs. Ada Lee Wells, Hyattsville.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Dayton and Miss Blanche Robinson, both of McCoole, and two grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Markwood Funeral Home in Keyser. Rev. W. W. Harvey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

The body will be at the funeral home after 2 p. m. today.

BURNS INFANT

The 3½-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Burns, Washington, former residents of Cumberland, died in Johns Hopkins Hospital October 3 of a congenital heart defect.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Browne, 4 Fort Hill Avenue, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Burns, of Baltimore, formerly of Cumberland.

Memorial services are to be conducted in Hope Lutheran Church, College Park.

MRS. YODER SERVICE

A funeral service for Mrs. Annie May Yoder, 81, of Pinto, who died Wednesday night in Sacred Heart Hospital, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Pinto Mennonite Church.

Rev. Mahlon Miller, pastor, will officiate, and will be assisted by Bishop Roy Otto of Springs, Pa. and Bishop A. J. Metzler, Scottdale, Pa. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers, all grandsons, will be Paul Livengood, Calvin Dayton, John Barton, Willia Yoder, Abe Helmick and Donald Yoder.

The body is at the residence and will be taken to the church at noon tomorrow.

MRS. HUGH BARCLAY

Mrs. Elsie (Warfield) Barclay, 53, of Pensacola, Fla., a native of Cumberland, died Wednesday in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital in Saranac Lake, N. Y. following a lingering illness.

She was a daughter of Mrs. Florence (Gill) Warfield, this city.

Her husband, Hugh Barclay, of Pensacola, also survives.

Other survivors include a daughter Mrs. Peregrine Stiegel, Boston; a son, Hugh McKee Barclay Jr., St. Petersburg, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Florence Peters, Hampton, Va., Mrs. Emma Hamilton, Ruxton, Md.

Services will be conducted Tuesday morning at the Church of the

A Whopper, Pop

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Five-year-old Paul Triff figured he'd hooked a big one when he and his dad were fishing in Glen Oak pond. His father, George Triff, agreed and the two pulled on the line, hauling in a park bench.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You Can't Have Grace Without Balance!

Toss a ball into the air. Note the position of your body after the ball leaves your hand.

If you are right-handed, you will find you stood with your right foot about a step ahead of your left; you leaned slightly forward; as you tossed the ball with your right arm, your left arm automatically swung backward. At least, that's what happened if you have good balance. If it didn't happen, you weren't as graceful as you should be, and you didn't pitch a good ball, either.

Without perfect balance, you can not stand, sit or walk with maximum grace. Furthermore, your proficiency in your favorite sport can't be what you wish it to be.

The secret of perfect equilibrium lies in learning to adjust the masses of your body so that they counterbalance in any position you may take. These body masses — head, chest, arms, pelvic area and legs—are so heavy that when one of them moves, the others must make compensatory movements to keep you from being thrown off balance and toppling over.

You can learn to improve your balance generally. When you can perform the following exercise with ease, and it's a hard one, you will be more gracefully poised in every action you perform.

Stand with your arms outstretched to the sides at shoulder level, feet together. Slowly stretch your left leg back behind you as far as you can. Keep your weight balanced on the ball of your right foot without wobbling. Hold for a count of 10. Return the left leg to starting position.

Then, slowly raise the leg backward, as you incline your body forward from your hips. Try to achieve a position in which your leg and body are in a straight line and parallel to the floor. Hold for a count of five. Repeat both parts of the exercise with the right leg.

When you can do it on both legs ten times for a count of twenty each time, you've got balance!

To Get Citation

The Safe-Teen Club of Cumberland will be presented a national citation at a dinner meeting Monday, October 21, at 6:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The organization will receive a citation from the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee in recognition of the safety check program conducted this spring in Allegany County.

The "Award of Excellence" citation was won by the Cumberland club in competition with similar youth groups throughout the country, according to Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

We're on our way up in the world.

In our view, it couldn't have happened to a nicer bourbon.

We were minding our business (which was none too big at the time), when suddenly a lot of people started asking for Antique Bourbon.

The only reason we can think of is that they must have tasted it. And liked its full flavor.

Older folks tell us we've recaptured the character of the great pre-Prohibition bourbons.

If we have, it's no accident. We have a very old-fashioned attitude.

We go right out to the corn-cribs to select the ears we prefer. (Not too moist, mind you.)

We heat our sour mash gently. Never over 212 degrees. So there's no danger of harshness.

We could turn out whiskey faster, if we took less trouble.

But we're sure you wouldn't want us to, once you've tasted it.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You Can't Have Grace Without Balance!

Toss a ball into the air. Note the position of your body after the ball leaves your hand.

If you are right-handed, you will find you stood with your right foot about a step ahead of your left; you leaned slightly forward; as you tossed the ball with your right arm, your left arm automatically swung backward. At least, that's what happened if you have good balance. If it didn't happen, you weren't as graceful as you should be, and you didn't pitch a good ball, either.

Without perfect balance, you can not stand, sit or walk with maximum grace. Furthermore, your proficiency in your favorite sport can't be what you wish it to be.

The secret of perfect equilibrium lies in learning to adjust the masses of your body so that they counterbalance in any position you may take. These body masses — head, chest, arms, pelvic area and legs—are so heavy that when one of them moves, the others must make compensatory movements to keep you from being thrown off balance and toppling over.

You can learn to improve your balance generally. When you can perform the following exercise with ease, and it's a hard one, you will be more gracefully poised in every action you perform.

Stand with your arms outstretched to the sides at shoulder level, feet together. Slowly stretch your left leg back behind you as far as you can. Keep your weight balanced on the ball of your right foot without wobbling. Hold for a count of 10. Return the left leg to starting position.

Then, slowly raise the leg backward, as you incline your body forward from your hips. Try to achieve a position in which your leg and body are in a straight line and parallel to the floor. Hold for a count of five. Repeat both parts of the exercise with the right leg.

When you can do it on both legs ten times for a count of twenty each time, you've got balance!

Fine Arts Building Is Sought For FSC

The president and several faculty members of Frostburg State College have conferred with the Department of Public Improvements in Baltimore concerning the proposed fine arts building for the Frostburg campus.

R. Bowen Hardesty, president; Dr. Ward K. Cole, Dr. Huber W. Ellingsworth, Dr. Rudolph Bremen, John H. Bosley, and Dr. Thomas V. Baucom meet with Albert P. Bacchus, chairman of the Department of Public Improvements to discuss the size of classrooms and other facilities of the proposed building.

Mr. Hardesty said Mr. Bacchus will confer within a few days with structure, for which planning money has been appropriated.

Funds for the actual construction of the building have not been appropriated, but will be requested in the next session of legislature.

According to Mr. Hardesty, Mr. Bacchus revealed that plans for a new men's dormitory are nearly complete and that it is expected that footers for the building will be placed before freezing weather begins.

Hardesty also said that Gov. J. Millard Tawes recently secured Dr. William Fuller, director, Bureau of Physical Facilities at Indiana University, to study the utilizations of state institutions in Maryland.

The study will have a bearing upon recommendations for additional buildings being asked for each year, he said.

The college president said the study by Dr. Fuller is an "excellent move" because this year at the Frostburg college it has been necessary to schedule classes on Saturdays until 1 p. m. and during evenings until 10 p. m. He said also that 500 to 600 students are renting rooms in the community.

Mr. Hardesty pointed out that in planning buildings for the College many factors have to be considered, such as projected enrollment, use of rooms to be vacated, curriculum of courses to be housed in the new building, courses and enrollment of classes to be housed, percentage of space utilization, expansion factors, sizes of rooms, halls and other rooms mathematically worked out, and percentage of offices and other rooms needed.

Dog Mothers Tiger Cub

OSIJEK, Yugoslavia (AP)—The tigress Goa of the local zoo was ill and unable to nurse her newborn cub. So the zoo brought in a female German Shepherd dog to do the nursing. Such a friendship developed between the baby tiger and mother dog that the zoo finally had to buy the dog. It lives in the tiger cage—and still does the nursing.

Another Castro In Algeria?

Pattern of a revolution betrayed, one bearing dismaying resemblance to Castroite Cuba, is unfolding in Algeria.

Latest to recognize this are the Berbers, who somehow got the mistaken notion that seven years of battling the French OAS would earn them a voice in an independent Algeria. That promise was contained in the plans Berber leaders and Ben Bella made while sharing French jails.

That aspiration was in the minds of Berber commanders who kept the revolution alive by defeating France's overseas troops every time they ventured into the Berbers' Kabylia mountain strongholds.

But Ben Bella's promises to the Berbers have proved no more durable than the agreements he made with the French at Evian. Algeria, he has made clear, will be run by a one-man dictatorship; whatever favors are to be dispensed will go to his Arab clique.

This one-cylinder government also has sped the seizure of private property down to the last European-owned factory, business or 100 hectares of land. Gen. de Gualle's patience is running out. With it may go French economic aid. American, German and British investors are withdrawing. To everyone's surprise, Washington withheld foreign aid when Ben Bella tried to attempt political blackmail by playing off the U. S. against the Soviet Union.

"Algeria is with Cuba," Ben Bella proclaimed not long ago. At the rate he's going, all that Algeria will have left to offer are missile sites and a deal with Moscow.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Making Earth Bloom Again

ZANESVILLE, Ohio — If you have been exposed to "liberal" books on economics, you have certainly heard of the "rape" of the American continent. In these books the forests are always "slashed" and the soil is always "mined." Currently, the Number One Villain is the strip mine operator who scrapes away the topsoil, digs out the coal, and then departs, leaving the landscape looking like the surface of the moon.

No doubt the strip mining companies have behaved in rather shabby fashion in parts of the coal-bearing regions of the Appalachians. But the "liberals" who still persist in thinking that strip mining is a means of despoiling the land forever are way behind the times, at least for the State of Ohio. Here, in this hilly area that was once famous for its pottery industry, there are several strip mining operations which exploit a low-grade coal that is good enough to fuel the power plant of the local Ohio Power Company and to supply the electricity that runs a Kaiser Aluminum project over in West Virginia. The strip mining machinery is the most advanced in the world; one particular operation of the Peabody Coal Company uses a giant "push-button" miner that cost the Joy Manufacturing Company two million dollars to build. It digs out a seam of coal under a ninety-five-foot overhang of sandstone and shale at a tremendous speed without a human hand being put to pick or shovel. But, of course, it wreaks havoc with the land, slashing a great wound across miles of once smiling countryside.

Enter, at this point, the "doctors." They don't happen to be "federal men," nor are they even employes of the state of Ohio. They are employes of private industry, "forest engineers" bent upon restouring the tumbled and denuded acres to a condition that will be worth something to the owners.

Many coal mining companies have started reclaiming strip mining territory because the new state laws insist that they must. But to do the Ohio Power Company justice, it started restouring the surface of its own deforested coal acres before there was any law to compel it. It began its recovery operations in the nineteen forties, partly as a means of building goodwill for an industry that is always vulnerable to public opinion, but mostly for reasons that had to do with sound, long-term economics. It had the worked-out coal land on its hands, it had to pay taxes on it, and it had to go on living with the people in the neighborhood.

What it discovered was that if the "spoil banks" of the strip mine areas were planted with locust trees, the locust roots would fix enough nitrogen in the soil to enable a hardwood forest cover of tulip, sweet gum, ash, poplar and oak trees to prosper on the most unpromising soil in the world. For a power company, the economics of the deal are propitious for the long pull. A power company needs poles. But it can also sell its wood crops for pulp — and the paper mills that spring up wherever pulp is available are big consumers of electric power.

To help get its reclamation projects off the ground the Ohio Power Company hired Paul Koller, a Hungarian refugee who, in the days before the Communists had seized his homeland, had been in charge of 400,000 acres of Hungarian state forest. The Europeans, with a long tradition of forest management behind them, had much to teach the local foresters. But the "Europeanization" of forest management in Ohio has been proceeding at a rapid pace since the late nineteen forties. Koller, now retired to a consultant's job, has passed on much of his lore to Rod Krause, a young Michigan State University forester who, with a crew that swells to more than a hundred and fifty men in planting season, continues to turn ugly strip mine gashes into beautiful stretches of lake and woods where people can fish, hunt, swim, and raise profitable tree crops.

Of course, one swallow does not make a summer. But what is being done to restore the Ohio landscape can be done in Pennsylvania, and far to the south in the blighted areas of the Cumberlands. And it does not necessarily require a big federal appropriation to do it.

A Chance To Display Good Will Toward Cuba

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The United States has an opportunity to help the people of Cuba, who have just suffered devastation of their farm lands by a hurricane.

To grant aid at this time would make an indelible impression on the people of Cuba, for they have been repeatedly told by Castro that this country is hostile to them. The mere fact that the United States government is ready to put aside its formalities in dealing with a country whose government isn't recognized diplomatically would create inside Cuba a feeling that the Cuban nation has not been abandoned by the people of this country. It would be a reminder of the friendly spirit exhibited 65 years ago when the United States sent its armed forces to help emancipate the island from Spanish oppressors.

Sen. George A. Smathers, Democrat, of Florida — a state which is caring for many Cuban exiles—is a staunch antagonist of Castro and his government, but nevertheless says in a statement that he favors aid to Cuba through the American Red Cross. He declares that, if permission were granted by the State Department here, the United States need not deal with Castro or his government. He adds:

"I believe that such an act of friendship would demonstrate to the Cubans that we bear no ill will toward them as people even though we remain steadfastly opposed to their form of government."

Because the United States is close by, it can furnish aid promptly. If some such move isn't made, the Soviets might well take advantage of the situation and come to the rescue of the Cubans, if only for propaganda purposes.

On the propaganda side, however, the United States has a greater opportunity than does the Soviet Union. For the people of Cuba know that, in the long run, their interests are more closely interwoven with those of this country than with the distant government in Moscow.

There has been, as a matter of fact, very little communication recently between the people of Cuba and the people of the United States. Except for the help given Cuban exiles and the sending of food and medicines in exchange for the prisoners held for ransom, there has been dependence on radio broadcasts to convey to the Cubans the information that the people of the United States are still interested in their fate.

The sudden destruction of sugar, coffee and tobacco crops by the hurricane will have a serious economic effect in Cuba, even though aid is rushed to individuals who have been made homeless.

The opportunity now is presented for the formulation of a comprehensive plan of economic aid and development for the Cuban people. This could be widely publicized so that the residents of the island will come to realize how much better off they would be if they could somehow get rid of Castro. It is thus a broad chance for an important move on the policy front which could perhaps hasten the day of a revolution to overthrow Castro. He himself would be caught in a squeeze. If he shunned America's offer of aid, he might unwittingly even light the fire of a revolution. However distasteful it might be to him, he might be taking less chance by letting the supplies come onto the island than by refusing them.

It wasn't Cuba alone, of course, which got hurt by the hurricane. Haiti's loss of life and property has been extensive. The United States maintains friendly relations with Haiti and will expedite help to that country, for which the American people will be glad to contribute through the Red Cross.

Again and again in recent years, assistance along humanitarian lines has been given to peoples in Latin America and elsewhere when earthquakes and other disasters have occurred.

The question naturally arises whether the export of American wheat to the Soviet people wouldn't come in the same category of humanitarianism even though it is a commercial sale. The United States doesn't need the money from the sale, and the government here could block it. There is always the possibility, however, that the United States could begin to negotiate an agreement with Moscow to end the "cold war." The prospect could be held forth of an even larger program of economic cooperation than the sale of wheat.

Certainly diplomacy should be busy these days at governmental levels, but the favorable impressions created by letting peoples everywhere have food from America offer propaganda advantages inside other countries. And it is, after all, the feeling of friendship other peoples come to have toward the United States which must in the long run cause them to dissent from the policies of autocratic governments.

Inside Washington

CANNED SPEECHES—Michael Monroney, executive assistant to the postmaster general, and Rep. Carlton Sickles of Maryland, appeared together on a program to dedicate a new post office.

When Sickles finished his address, Monroney was called to the podium. He whipped a speech out of his pocket and began to read it in tones of strong emphasis, gestures and all.

However, and fortunately, Monroney listens to himself talking. It wasn't long before he realized he was reciting the exact speech Sickles had just delivered. Without batting an eye, Monroney shifted away from his prepared remarks and ab-libbed a pretty good set of words about the advantages to the community of the new facility.

The Post Office Department has a set routine for handling inaugurations of new post offices, but in this instance something went wrong. The department had supplied Sickles and Monroney with identical speeches.

It reminded some capital folk of an incident several years ago involving the head of a foreign state. The dignitary was scheduled to make speeches before the National Press Club and a joint session of Congress during his brief Washington visit. The Big Wig had been reading his Press Club speech for about 15 minutes when he came up short and explained to his audience that he had been reading the speech that had been prepared for him for delivery to Congress. Unabashed, he put the speech back into his pocket, reached into another pocket for the other speech, and calmly read it through from start to finish.

U.S. Must Do Something Dramatic To Preserve Latin Democracies

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It is the zero hour for the Alliance for Progress. This was the general consensus of Senators who debated the march of Latin military dictatorships at a closed door session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The situation has become so serious that Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Latin America, told State Department officials they should have arranged a show of military force to save the democracies of the Dominican Republic and Honduras from overthrow.

Perhaps the military seizures could have been prevented, Morse suggested, by the timely arrival of a U.S. aircraft carrier or a contingent of Marines.

This was also the view of Sen. Ernest Gruening, the grizzled Democrat from Alaska once in charge of the Carribbean area under Roosevelt and an adviser on the original good neighbor policy.

Greuning, who was invited to attend the closed door session of the Foreign Relations Committee, though not a member, argued that if any government requested intervention by the United States the United States could intervene without encroaching on national sovereignty.

"We sent the entire Sixth Fleet to Lebanon and landed 6,000 Marines when the President of Lebanon asked for help in a much less serious situation," Sen. Gruening recalled. "But when the Dominican ambassador officially asked for help, where were we?

"This was the first honest election ever held in the Dominican Republic," the Senator from Alaska continued. "If the Kennedy administration isn't going to lose its shirt in Latin America it should now cut off the Dominican sugar quota, cut off all U.S. aid and withhold our ambassador until President Bosch is taken back."

"Gunboat Diplomacy"

Nervous, chain-smoking Ambassador John Bartlow Martin who had been called back to Washington from Santo Domingo told the Senators he had expected the military revolt. The tip-off came when the top Dominican military failed to show up at a reception for a visiting American admiral, Rear Admiral William E. Farrall, commander of the 15th Naval District.

"Mr. Ambassador," broke in Morse, glaring fiercely from beneath shaggy eyebrows, "how did the admiral get into the Dominican Republic?"

"He flew in," said the Ambassador.

"You testified," pressed Morse, "that it was known for some time that this coup was on its way. What would have been the result if an aircraft carrier had embarked to Santo Domingo or if the admiral had been accompanied by an honor guard of Marines?"

"We thought of that," replied Ambassador Martin. "It appeared to us like a form of none-too-subtle intervention."

"Gunboat diplomacy!" snorted Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa Republican. "That's what it would have been reduced to."

"You mean," snapped Morse, "that we cannot step in to save our form of government? Democracy might have been saved in the Dominican Republic if we had complimented that government by sending down a couple of thousand American sailors. That might be armed intervention, but in my judgment it would be pretty smart diplomacy."

He suggested that the same thing should have been done in Honduras.

"We have got to make up our mind," said the Senator from Oregon, "whether or not within the framework of our democracy we can have constitution governments in Latin America."

But Sen. Hickenlooper objected. "These people aren't ready for what we are talking about, for a democratic form of government," he grumbled. "I don't like military dictatorships, but you don't have any choice. You are going to have military regimes which are friendly to the United States or you are going to have Communist dictatorships."

"That's a very simple solution," was Morse's caustic comment.

Ambassador Martin, who gave the Senators a detailed account of the Dominican revolution explained that President Bosch had just put a law through the Dominican Congress separating church and state. Hitherto, the Catholic Church has received direct funds from the government and the priests have supervised instruction in the schools.

When President Bosch put across this reform—following the pattern of the Mexican reforms—he won the enmity of the church which lined up on the side of the military.

"All this revolt was done with the power of American arms, don't forget," wryly remarked Sen. Frank Church, the Idaho Democrat. "American arms were used in both Honduras and the Dominican Republic to overthrow constitutionally elected governments."

Ambassador Bosch told the Senators how Bosch had cracked down on military spending by the Dominican Army. In one case a General Luna wanted to buy $50,000,000 worth of jets from the British with a 10 per cent commission going to him.

"The deal was outrageous," Martin stated. "The Dominicans don't need military jets and Bosch stopped the deal. All this talk of Bosch being Communist was pure bunk. He was a little left of center but he was for the Dominican people."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

One of my luxuries is being stupid. I can't afford it every day, but I try it as often as possible. Stupidity is a grace we can see in our friends, but not in ourselves. I can only see it when it is too late. Even then, I have to prod myself, like murmuring: "Okay, Stupe. What have you done this time?"

If I am in the mood, I answer. If not, I move around the house looking smart, like someone who knows what he is doing. Once I had a friend who was chronically ill. He was a handsome drunk too. I used to drive to a far-away hospital, bringing goodies and a $20 bill.

That wasn't enough. He wanted me to bring a topcoat, so that I could sneak him out of the hospital to the nearest ginmill. I did that too. We got away with it, even though the local bartender used to stare at the striped pajamas sticking out under the topcoat.

This went on for years. Then one day he wrote a bitter letter saying that friends in his ward told him that if I was any kind of a real pal, I'd support him. At that point, I closed the book. He took me off his Christmas card list.

On another occasion, I took a soldier who wanted to become a magazine editor and I broke him in. And how I broke him in. I devoted a year of intensive study to teaching him everything I had learned. He got a job as editor of a good magazine. I needed work. I was broke. You're right. He was too busy to see me.

The reformed gangster was another case. He liked stolen cars and guns. In Miami, he almost killed a guard. I got on his mailing list, and I believed him. He had a Puerto Rican wife and a baby. I wrote about him over a period of years, pleading his case. At last he was free.

He wanted to take his wife and baby to England, "to start all over." I helped. All he wanted was a little cottage and a job. He got both. He used them to organize a ring of car thieves. When he landed in prison, he wrote: "After all you've done, you're not going to drop me now. This is when I need your help the most." That's when he got it the least.

We had a deep South maid who had a car. The finance company was about to take it. She engineered a local loan in a local bank. They asked me to countersign it, because, as the banker said, he knew me but didn't know her. So I did. The last I heard from her, she was heading for Detroit. The last I heard from the banker was when I paid off the loan. He said: "Thanks."

I had a friend who was an electrician. He used to come to the house to fix something and he'd spend the first hour talking to his assistant over my beer. One time when I was away, a storm blew up and the cellar was flooded. It also blew a couple of lamps over.

My friend the electrician pumped out the cellar and re-rooted the lamps.

It required the services of State Senator John Toolan to straighten out the bill. We had a middle-aged cook who had a heart attack. Who could desert a lady who was that sick? So we kept her on full salary for 10 weeks and waited on her hand and foot. As soon as she felt strong enough, she quit. She now works for a middle-aged widower. It figures.

A couple of years ago, a friend recommended me to a broker. The broker phoned. What did I mean, keeping money rotting in a bank when it could be earning big dividends? Well, he was right. What did I mean by doing that anyway?

So I accepted his recommendations. And bought stocks. I have a lot of yellow, orange and blue certificates. They are worth about two-thirds what I paid for them. I'm playing a game called Buy-'em High; Sell-'em Low. It's an expensive pastime, but you're never in doubt about what is going to happen.

The producer for a comedian asked me to write a television presentation for him. Nobody else would do except good old Stupe. So I wrote it. He raved. "I asked for the best," he cooed, "and that's what I got." Now, when I phone for payment, I'm told to call his lawyer.

When I receive mail from relatives. I ignore the good wishes at the opening, and the compliments which follow. Somewhere down along page three or four there is bound to be something they want from me. Once in awhile, I have to dig to find it, but it is always there. It is always something only I can do. If I don't do it, the letters keep coming. If I do it, all communication stops.

The best, though, was an old and dear friend whom I housed for a few years. He was working. He paid nothing. I asked nothing. When it came time for him to shift for himself, he was grim. "Don't worry," he said, "you'll hear from me." What about? I said innocently. Hadn't I done enough? "It's not what you did for me," he said. "You could have done a lot more."

Ah, my stupidity. I wouldn't trade it for the wisdom of Confucius. I'll bet that old buzzard had his moments too . . .

Increase Noted In Deaths From Lung Cancer

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Carcinoma of the lung is becoming one of the most frequent of all cancers. Approximately 2,500 Americans died of the disease in 1930; 18,000 in 1950; 29,000 in 1956; and 44,370 in 1962. These figures explain why so many are concerned and want something done about the cause. Similar increases have been noted in other countries.

Several months ago, a Georgia woman wrote: "We hear so much about the relationship between smoking and lung cancer, but no one tells us about the disease. What are the symptoms? How does a person recognize the condition early? Is surgery the only cure?"

There are several forms of lung cancer but bronchogenic carcinoma is the most common. The malignancy develops in the lining membrane of the bronchi rather than along the edge of the lung where contact with polluted air is minimal.

The manifestations vary with the location of the growth in the bronchial tree. A small lesion in the windpipe or a large bronchi may lead to cough. This may not be appreciated by an individual with a cigaret cough until more and more mucus is raised or the sputum becomes streaked with blood.

Tumors deep in the lung may reach considerable size before they produce symptoms. This means cancer can exist for some time before causing discomfort.

Chest pain usually is a late symptom and denotes spread of the lesion toward the edge of the lung. Fever, weakness, shortness of breath, and weight loss are signs of an advanced stage.

Most lung cancers can be seen on chest X-rays but additional studies are needed when abnormalities are noted, because other diseases can mimic cancer. The next step is to study the sputum for cancer cells and, if the result is negative, a bronchoscopic examination is recommended. A tube is passed through the mouth into the bronchi to obtain firsthand information about the tumor. A tiny piece is removed for biopsy. A small neck gland also is taken out for the same purpose because cancer often spreads upward into the lymph nodes.

TOMORROW: Ugly scar tissue.

QUICK GAIN

J. A. F. writes: Besides eating, what would cause a sudden gain in weight?

REPLY

The accumulation of water in the tissues secondary to heart or kidney conditions, too much salt, milk leg, too little protein in the system, glandular disorders like thyroid deficiency, and the use of certain hormones such as cortisone.

PUFFY LIDS

M. M. writes: Would wearing glasses help baggy eyelids?

REPLY

No, but tinted glasses will help hide the old bags. There are many origins of this condition and it might be worthwhile to see your physician. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on puffy eyelids.

DROOLING OLDSTER

C. J. M. writes: I'm 72 and my sister, a year older, visited us. I notice she drooled a lot. What is the cause and cure of this annoying condition?

REPLY

Relaxation of the muscles of the mouth or increased salivation from false teeth. Victims of Bell's palsy also drool.

NECK SWELLING

E. S. writes: Could a swollen gland in the neck be indicative of cancer?

REPLY

Yes, but there are more common causes. Your problem can be solved easily; so why remain in doubt another minute.

ANIMAL BITES

M. M. writes: Are human bites the most dangerous of all animal bites?

REPLY

They are hazardous because the human mouth teems with bacteria. But I would rather be bitten by a human than by an alligator or hippo, which can nip off quite a hunk of flesh.

STIFF SHOULDER

C. M. writes: Is a frozen shoulder the same as bursitis?

REPLY

Yes, in that the condition is a complication of bursitis. It is so named because the shoulder is stiff and the arm cannot be raised.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A stingy old lady on an upstate farm hired a new hand, and followed him all the first day to make sure he didn't waste a moment. When dinner time came round, the new hand noted with disgust that the whole bill of fare consisted of a couple of very thin slices of meat loaf, bread, tea, and a very small spot of honey in the center of the table on a big platter. "I see, ma'am," he observed coldly, "that you keep a bee."

A couple of ardent girl-watchers were inspecting the talent at an outdoor music festival. One lass in particular intrigued them. "I wonder where she got those looks?" pondered one. "From her father," answered the other authoritatively. "He's a plastic surgeon."

Douglas Watt overheard a distressing conversation at a midtown snack bar. "You're nothing but a bum," upbraided a seedy-looking father. "Yeah?" answered his son. "Who brings home the unemployment checks?"

Another Castro In Algeria?

Pattern of a revolution betrayed, one bearing dismaying resemblance to Castroite Cuba, is unfolding in Algeria.

Latest to recognize this are the Berbers, who somehow got the mistaken notion that seven years of battling the French OAS would earn them a voice in an independent Algeria. That promise was contained in the plans Berber leaders and Ben Bella made while sharing French jails.

That aspiration was in the minds of Berber commanders who kept the revolution alive by defeating France's overseas troops every time they ventured into the Berbers' Kabylia mountain strongholds.

But Ben Bella's promises to the Berbers have proved no more durable than the agreements he made with the French at Evian. Algeria, he has made clear, will be run by a one-man dictatorship; whatever favors are to be dispensed will go to his Arab clique.

This one-cylinder government also has sped the seizure of private property down to the last European-owned factory, business or 100 hectares of land. Gen. de Gualle's patience is running out. With it may go French economic aid. American, German and British investors are withdrawing. To everyone's surprise, Washington withheld foreign aid when Ben Bella tried to attempt political blackmail by playing off the U. S. against the Soviet Union.

"Algeria is with Cuba," Ben Bella proclaimed not long ago. At the rate he's going, all that Algeria will have left to offer are missile sites and a deal with Moscow.

These Days

Making Earth Bloom Again

ZANESVILLE, Ohio — If you have been exposed to "liberal" books on economics, you have certainly heard of the "rape" of the American continent. In these books the forests are always "slashed" and the soil is always "mined." Currently, the Number One Villain is the strip mine operator who scrapes away the topsoil, digs out the coal, and then departs, leaving the landscape looking like the surface of the moon.

No doubt the strip mining companies have behaved in rather shabby fashion in parts of the coal-bearing regions of the Appalachians. But the "liberals" who still persist in thinking that strip mining is a means of despoiling the land forever are way behind the times, at least for the State of Ohio. Here, in this hilly area that was once famous for its pottery industry, there are several strip mining operations which exploit a low-grade coal that is good enough to fuel the power plant of the local Ohio Power Company and to supply the electricity that runs a Kaiser Aluminum project over in West Virginia. The strip mining machinery is the most advanced in the world; one particular operation of the Peabody Coal Company uses a giant "push-button" miner that cost the Joy Manufacturing Company two million dollars to build. It digs out a seam of coal under a ninety-five-foot overhang of sandstone and shale at a tremendous speed without a human hand being put to pick or shovel. But, of course, it wreaks havoc with the land, slashing a great wound across miles of once smiling countryside.

Enter, at this point, the "doctors." They don't happen to be "federal men," nor are they even employes of the state of Ohio. They are employes of private industry, "forest engineers" bent upon restouring the tumbled and denuded acres to a condition that will be worth something to the owners.

Many coal mining companies have started reclaiming strip mining territory because the new state laws insist that they must. But to do the Ohio Power Company justice, it started restouring the surface of its own deforested coal acres before there was any law to compel it. It began its recovery operations in the nineteen forties, partly as a means of building goodwill for an industry that is always vulnerable to public opinion, but mostly for reasons that had to do with sound, long-term economics. It had the worked-out coal land on its hands, it had to pay taxes on it, and it had to go on living with the people in the neighborhood.

What it discovered was that if the "spoil banks" of the strip mine areas were planted with locust trees, the locust roots would fix enough nitrogen in the soil to enable a hardwood forest cover of tulip, sweet gum, ash, poplar and oak trees to prosper on the most unpromising soil in the world. For a power company, the economics of the deal are propitious for the long pull. A power company needs poles. But it can also sell its wood crops for pulp — and the paper mills that spring up wherever pulp is available are big consumers of electric power.

To help get its reclamation projects off the ground the Ohio Power Company hired Paul Koller, a Hungarian refugee who, in the days before the Communists had seized his homeland, had been in charge of 400,000 acres of Hungarian state forest. The Europeans, with a long tradition of forest management behind them, had much to teach the local foresters. But the "Europeanization" of forest management in Ohio has been proceeding at a rapid pace since the late nineteen forties. Koller, now retired to a consultant's job, has passed on much of his lore to Rod Krause, a young Michigan State University forester who, with a crew that swells to more than a hundred and fifty men in planting season, continues to turn ugly strip mine gashes into beautiful stretches of lake and woods where people can fish, hunt, swim, and raise profitable tree crops.

Of course, one swallow does not make a summer. But what is being done to restore the Ohio landscape can be done in Pennsylvania, and far to the south in the blighted areas of the Cumberlands. And it does not necessarily require a big federal appropriation to do it.

Several months ago, a Georgia woman wrote: "We hear so much about the relationship between smoking and lung cancer, but no one tells us about the disease. What are the symptoms? How does a person recognize the condition early? Is surgery the only cure?"

There are several forms of lung cancer but bronchogenic carcinoma is the most common. The malignancy develops in the lining membrane of the bronchi rather than along the edge of the lung where contact with polluted air is minimal.

The manifestations vary with the location of the growth in the bronchial tree. A small lesion in the windpipe or a large bronchi may lead to cough. This may not be appreciated by an individual with a cigaret cough until more and more mucus is raised or the sputum becomes streaked with blood.

Tumors deep in the lung may reach considerable size before they produce symptoms. This means cancer can exist for some time before causing discomfort.

Chest pain usually is a late symptom and denotes spread of the lesion toward the edge of the lung. Fever, weakness, shortness of breath, and weight loss are signs of an advanced stage.

Most lung cancers can be seen on chest X-rays but additional studies are needed when abnormalities are noted, because other diseases can mimic cancer. The next step is to study the sputum for cancer cells and, if the result is negative, a bronchoscopic examination is recommended. A tube is passed through the mouth into the bronchi to obtain firsthand information about the tumor. A tiny piece is removed for biopsy. A small neck gland also is taken out for the same purpose because cancer often spreads upward into the lymph nodes.

TOMORROW: Ugly scar tissue.

QUICK GAIN

J. A. F. writes: Besides eating, what would cause a sudden gain in weight?

REPLY

The accumulation of water in the tissues secondary to heart or kidney conditions, too much salt, milk leg, too little protein in the system, glandular disorders like thyroid deficiency, and the use of certain hormones such as cortisone.

PUFFY LIDS

M. M. writes: Would wearing glasses help baggy eyelids?

REPLY

No, but tinted glasses will help hide the old bags. There are many origins of this condition and it might be worthwhile to see your physician. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on puffy eyelids.

DROOLING OLDSTER

C. J. M. writes: I'm 72 and my sister, a year older, visited us. I notice she drooled a lot. What is the cause and cure of this annoying condition?

REPLY

Relaxation of the muscles of the mouth or increased salivation from false teeth. Victims of Bell's palsy also drool.

NECK SWELLING

E. S. writes: Could a swollen gland in the neck be indicative of cancer?

REPLY

Yes, but there are more common causes. Your problem can be solved easily; so why remain in doubt another minute.

ANIMAL BITES

M. M. writes: Are human bites the most dangerous of all animal bites?

REPLY

They are hazardous because the human mouth teems with bacteria. But I would rather be bitten by a human than by an alligator or hippo, which can nip off quite a hunk of flesh.

STIFF SHOULDER

C. M. writes: Is a frozen shoulder the same as bursitis?

REPLY

Yes, in that the condition is a complication of bursitis. It is so named because the shoulder is stiff and the arm cannot be raised.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A stingy old lady on an upstate farm hired a new hand, and followed him all the first day to make sure he didn't waste a moment. When dinner time came round, the new hand noted with disgust that the whole bill of fare consisted of a couple of very thin slices of meat loaf, bread, tea, and a very small spot of honey in the center of the table on a big platter. "I see, ma'am," he observed coldly, "that you keep a bee."

A couple of ardent girl-watchers were inspecting the talent at an outdoor music festival. One lass in particular intrigued them. "I wonder where she got those looks?" pondered one. "From her father," answered the other authoritatively. "He's a plastic surgeon."

Douglas Watt overheard a distressing conversation at a midtown snack bar. "You're nothing but a bum," upbraided a seedy-looking father. "Yeah?" answered his son. "Who brings home the unemployment checks?"

U.S. Must Do Something Dramatic To Preserve Latin Democracies

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It is the zero hour for the Alliance for Progress. This was the general consensus of Senators who debated the march of Latin military dictatorships at a closed door session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The situation has become so serious that Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Latin America, told State Department officials they should have arranged a show of military force to save the democracies of the Dominican Republic and Honduras from overthrow.

Perhaps the military seizures could have been prevented, Morse suggested, by the timely arrival of a U.S. aircraft carrier or a contingent of Marines.

This was also the view of Sen. Ernest Gruening, the grizzled Democrat from Alaska once in charge of the Carribbean area under Roosevelt and an adviser on the original good neighbor policy.

Greuning, who was invited to attend the closed door session of the Foreign Relations Committee, though not a member, argued that if any government requested intervention by the United States the United States could intervene without encroaching on national sovereignty.

"We sent the entire Sixth Fleet to Lebanon and landed 6,000 Marines when the President of Lebanon asked for help in a much less serious situation," Sen. Gruening recalled. "But when the Dominican ambassador officially asked for help, where were we?

"This was the first honest election ever held in the Dominican Republic," the Senator from Alaska continued. "If the Kennedy administration isn't going to lose its shirt in Latin America it should now cut off the Dominican sugar quota, cut off all U.S. aid and withhold our ambassador until President Bosch is taken back."

"Gunboat Diplomacy"

Nervous, chain-smoking Ambassador John Bartlow Martin who had been called back to Washington from Santo Domingo told the Senators he had expected the military revolt. The tip-off came when the top Dominican military failed to show up at a reception for a visiting American admiral, Rear Admiral William E. Farrall, commander of the 15th Naval District.

"Mr. Ambassador," broke in Morse, glaring fiercely from beneath shaggy eyebrows, "how did the admiral get into the Dominican Republic?"

"He flew in," said the Ambassador.

"You testified," pressed Morse, "that it was known for some time that this coup was on its way. What would have been the result if an aircraft carrier had embarked to Santo Domingo or if the admiral had been accompanied by an honor guard of Marines?"

"We thought of that," replied Ambassador Martin. "It appeared to us like a form of none-too-subtle intervention."

"Gunboat diplomacy!" snorted Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa Republican. "That's what it would have been reduced to."

"You mean," snapped Morse, "that we cannot step in to save our form of government? Democracy might have been saved in the Dominican Republic if we had complimented that government by sending down a couple of thousand American sailors. That might be armed intervention, but in my judgment it would be pretty smart diplomacy."

He suggested that the same thing should have been done in Honduras.

"We have got to make up our mind," said the Senator from Oregon, "whether or not within the framework of our democracy we can have constitution governments in Latin America."

But Sen. Hickenlooper objected. "These people aren't ready for what we are talking about, for a democratic form of government," he grumbled. "I don't like military dictatorships, but you don't have any choice. You are going to have military regimes which are friendly to the United States or you are going to have Communist dictatorships."

"That's a very simple solution," was Morse's caustic comment.

Ambassador Martin, who gave the Senators a detailed account of the Dominican revolution explained that President Bosch had just put a law through the Dominican Congress separating church and state. Hitherto, the Catholic Church has received direct funds from the government and the priests have supervised instruction in the schools.

When President Bosch put across this reform—following the pattern of the Mexican reforms—he won the enmity of the church which lined up on the side of the military.

"All this revolt was done with the power of American arms, don't forget," wryly remarked Sen. Frank Church, the Idaho Democrat. "American arms were used in both Honduras and the Dominican Republic to overthrow constitutionally elected governments."

Ambassador Bosch told the Senators how Bosch had cracked down on military spending by the Dominican Army. In one case a General Luna wanted to buy $50,000,000 worth of jets from the British with a 10 per cent commission going to him.

"The deal was outrageous," Martin stated. "The Dominicans don't need military jets and Bosch stopped the deal. All this talk of Bosch being Communist was pure bunk. He was a little left of center but he was for the Dominican people."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

One of my luxuries is being stupid. I can't afford it every day, but I try it as often as possible. Stupidity is a grace we can see in our friends, but not in ourselves. I can only see it when it is too late. Even then, I have to prod myself, like murmuring: "Okay, Stupe. What have you done this time?"

If I am in the mood, I answer. If not, I move around the house looking smart, like someone who knows what he is doing. Once I had a friend who was chronically ill. He was a handsome drunk too. I used to drive to a far-away hospital, bringing goodies and a $20 bill.

That wasn't enough. He wanted me to bring a topcoat, so that I could sneak him out of the hospital to the nearest ginmill. I did that too. We got away with it, even though the local bartender used to stare at the striped pajamas sticking out under the topcoat.

This went on for years. Then one day he wrote a bitter letter saying that friends in his ward told him that if I was any kind of a real pal, I'd support him. At that point, I closed the book. He took me off his Christmas card list.

On another occasion, I took a soldier who wanted to become a magazine editor and I broke him in. And how I broke him in. I devoted a year of intensive study to teaching him everything I had learned. He got a job as editor of a good magazine. I needed work. I was broke. You're right. He was too busy to see me.

The reformed gangster was another case. He liked stolen cars and guns. In Miami, he almost killed a guard. I got on his mailing list, and I believed him. He had a Puerto Rican wife and a baby. I wrote about him over a period of years, pleading his case. At last he was free.

He wanted to take his wife and baby to England, "to start all over." I helped. All he wanted was a little cottage and a job. He got both. He used them to organize a ring of car thieves. When he landed in prison, he wrote: "After all you've done, you're not going to drop me now. This is when I need your help the most." That's when he got it the least.

We had a deep South maid who had a car. The finance company was about to take it. She engineered a local loan in a local bank. They asked me to countersign it, because, as the banker said, he knew me but didn't know her. So I did. The last I heard from her, she was heading for Detroit. The last I heard from the banker was when I paid off the loan. He said: "Thanks."

I had a friend who was an electrician. He used to come to the house to fix something and he'd spend the first hour talking to his assistant over my beer. One time when I was away, a storm blew up and the cellar was flooded. It also blew a couple of lamps over.

My friend the electrician pumped out the cellar and re-rooted the lamps.

It required the services of State Senator John Toolan to straighten out the bill. We had a middle-aged cook who had a heart attack. Who could desert a lady who was that sick? So we kept her on full salary for 10 weeks and waited on her hand and foot. As soon as she felt strong enough, she quit. She now works for a middle-aged widower. It figures.

A couple of years ago, a friend recommended me to a broker. The broker phoned. What did I mean, keeping money rotting in a bank when it could be earning big dividends? Well, he was right. What did I mean by doing that anyway?

So I accepted his recommendations. And bought stocks. I have a lot of yellow, orange and blue certificates. They are worth about two-thirds what I paid for them. I'm playing a game called Buy-'em High; Sell-'em Low. It's an expensive pastime, but you're never in doubt about what is going to happen.

The producer for a comedian asked me to write a television presentation for him. Nobody else would do except good old Stupe. So I wrote it. He raved. "I asked for the best," he cooed, "and that's what I got." Now, when I phone for payment, I'm told to call his lawyer.

When I receive mail from relatives. I ignore the good wishes at the opening, and the compliments which follow. Somewhere down along page three or four there is bound to be something they want from me. Once in awhile, I have to dig to find it, but it is always there. It is always something only I can do. If I don't do it, the letters keep coming. If I do it, all communication stops.

The best, though, was an old and dear friend whom I housed for a few years. He was working. He paid nothing. I asked nothing. When it came time for him to shift for himself, he was grim. "Don't worry," he said, "you'll hear from me." What about? I said innocently. Hadn't I done enough? "It's not what you did for me," he said. "You could have done a lot more."

Ah, my stupidity. I wouldn't trade it for the wisdom of Confucius. I'll bet that old buzzard had his moments too . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A group of us teenagers were discussing the things that gripe us most about our parents. We have drawn up ten resolutions which we have titled "The Ten Commandments Of Parenthood."

We have tried to be fair and we are proud of our work. Please tell us what you think of it. Here they are:

1. Parents should not open mail, eavesdrop on conservations, or search the personal belongings of their teenagers.

2. Parents should give their teenagers an allowance in proportion to the amount of work they do around the house.

3. Parents should not use violence as a means of discipline. Forfeiting allowance, telephone calls or nights out or being given extra chores are much better disciplinary tools.

4. Parents should give teenagers an allotted time on the telephone. Fifteen minutes a night should be plenty.

5. Parents should not ban places, people or social practices. More often than not, if parents would explain why they disapprove they would find their teenagers in agreement with them.

6. Parents should tolerate teenage clothing fads. They wore some pretty weird get-ups in their day.

7. Parents should not treat sex as a bad joke or something terrible. They should be open, honest and frank.

8. Parents should see to it that their children grow up in an atmosphere where religion is important.

9. Parents should act as models for their teenagers.

10. Parents should not forget that they were once teenagers and not so very different from us.

— PLATTSBURG, N. Y. TEENS

DEAR PLATTSBURG. You have done an excellent job. I heartily approve of all the commandments except Number 5. In its place I would suggest substituting this one:

Parents should exercise their God-given right to draw firm and definite boundaries for their teenagers. They should not respond to pressure of such arguments as, "Everybody else is doing it. I'm the only one who can't."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is an unusual one. It's the way my boy friend dances. It's not that he is a poor dancer, it's that he is just too good a dancer for me.

We've been going together for almost a year and I've tried to learn the intricate steps so I can follow him, but it's no use. I've told him I feel uncomfortable when he does fancy steps but he pays no attention and does them anyway. It's embarrassing because I feel that everyone is watching us and pitying him.

Don't get the idea that I can't dance at all. I am considered a good partner for the standard dances, but I am no good as an exhibitionist. What can you suggest?

—STUMBLING SAL

DEAR SAL: I know the type. He doesn't need a partner because he's always doing a solo.

Tell him if he insists on trying for the cup every time, you'll walk off the floor and let him shine by himself. Then do it.

Confidential to TIRED OF CORRUPTION: It takes two to play that game. Why do you criticize him for accepting when you are equally guilty for offering? You can clean up the "scandalous situation" by starting with yourself.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Grand Jurors

Concerning Sylvan Retreat, the grand jury recommends that consideration be given to interior decorating with brighter and more colorful paint to provide a more cheerful atmosphere. More comfortable lounge furniture also would be beneficial, the report said. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Messmer were commended for their management of this facility.

Similarly, the grand jury found the county home in good condition considering its age. It is well kept, clean and sanitary. Although Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim and other personnel were commended for their good job, it was suggested that lighter, brighter colors in redecorating would make the rooms more cheerful. Although the kitchen was clean, the grand jury favors replacement of certain antiquated equipment.

The grand jury believes that the citizens of Allegany County should be proud of the county infirmary, which is the only institution of this type operated by a county in Maryland. The committee was especially happy to see the new juvenile detention quarters which are staffed whenever there is a need.

Condition of the Union Street Building also is good, the grand jury reported. Toilet facilities are inadequate for the number of persons employed, but the grand jury believes extensive renovation is not recommended since personnel of this building eventually will be housed in the county-wide office structure.

Improvements Needed

The most urgent need found at the county welfare building, a former school on Cumberland Street, is for an improved children's room and that interview booths be enclosed and soundproofed.

The final commendation in the report was for State's Attorney James S. Getty, his assistant, Donald W. Mason; William F. Baker, county investigator, and Mrs. Leo Shipley, secretary.

Among those questioned by the grand jury were Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Miss Ethel Wilderman, director of the County Welfare Department; Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein, State Police Lt. William Massey, City Police Chief B. F. Gaffney, Fire Chief Virgil Parker, County Commissioners Robert Little Ebert, Louis V. Shinnamon and Russell N. Carder, Thomas Powell and James Close, mine inspectors; Roy Willison, liquor inspector; William Paitsell, police chief of Luke; Alfred Drew, Frostburg constable; Donald Griffith, Frostburg police chief; Frank Sultzer, Westernport police chief; George Kirkwood, Lonaconing police chief; Ivan Wilson and Glen Isner, constables of Cumberland, and William Shuhart, Barton police chief. The grand jury commended the officers for their efforts to obtain strict compliance with the criminal laws.

The grand jury report was signed by Martin L. Johnson, foreman, and Thomas L. Keech and James E. Yarnall, clerks.

Man To Face Jury Action In Theft

A local man who was arrested Tuesday in connection with the breaking and entering of an apartment here and the theft of a clock radio and electric steam iron and also for the theft of an electric razor belonging to another local man was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Trial Magistrate Leslie J. Clark.

Guy O'Hara, 743 Maryland Avenue, was taken to Allegany County jail in default of $1,000 bond set by the magistrate and will face grand jury action in the breaking and entering and theft of the radio and iron from Lillian Williams, 123 South Mechanic Street.

Donald W. Mason, deputy state's attorney, was present at the hearing and said the state prayed a jury trial in the petty larceny of the razor from James Talley of 25 Arch Street.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van who arrested O'Hara, took a statement from the man yesterday morning prior to the preliminary hearing.

Van gave a resume of his investigation at the hearing. He was assisted in the investigation by Detective Harry Iser. Police Officer Richard Lashley arrested O'Hara after a pickup had been issued. The three items were recovered, police said.

Concerning Sylvan Retreat, the grand jury recommends that consideration be given to interior decorating with brighter and more colorful paint to provide a more cheerful atmosphere. More comfortable lounge furniture also would be beneficial, the report said. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Messmer were commended for their management of this facility.

Similarly, the grand jury found the county home in good condition considering its age. It is well kept, clean and sanitary. Although Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim and other personnel were commended for their good job, it was suggested that lighter, brighter colors in redecorating would make the rooms more cheerful. Although the kitchen was clean, the grand jury favors replacement of certain antiquated equipment.

The grand jury believes that the citizens of Allegany County should be proud of the county infirmary, which is the only institution of this type operated by a county in Maryland. The committee was especially happy to see the new juvenile detention quarters which are staffed whenever there is a need.

Condition of the Union Street Building also is good, the grand jury reported. Toilet facilities are inadequate for the number of persons employed, but the grand jury believes extensive renovation is not recommended since personnel of this building eventually will be housed in the county-wide office structure.

Christmas Tree Growers Assoc. Meets Oct. 12

OAKLAND — The annual fall meeting of the Maryland Christmas Tree Growers Association will be held at the John Cotton plantation at Florence, Howard County, on Saturday, October 12, from 10 a. m. until late afternoon. The site is at the junction of Old Annapolis Road and State Route 94, two miles South of Lisbon.

All sessions are open to the public and prospective Christmas tree growers are invited to attend. A fried chicken picnic lunch will be available at noon.

The program will include tree-planting machinery demonstrations, equipment for shearing and shaping trees, mist blowers and spraying devices for the control of insects, brush and weeds. A short business meeting and a get-acquainted session is planned.

John Cotton, of Kingslene Farm, Glenwood, is president and Paul R. Mateer Jr., Court House, Oakland, is secretary-treasurer of the association.

Currently, some 1,000 acres of Maryland land are being devoted to scientific growth and management of high-quality Christmas trees, according to Harry W. Dengler, extension forester at the University of Maryland. Several thousand acres, originally planted for Christmas tree production, have been abandoned for this purpose by their owners because of forest fires, insect damage, improper selection of species or lack or realization concerning the amount of work involved.

Most of these trees, however, will eventually reach post, pulpwood, pole and saw timber sizes and thus return the landowners some profit on their investment, Mr. Dengler added.

Bishop To Visit Frostburg Sunday

FROSTBURG — The Right Reverend Harry Lee Doll, bishop coadjuster of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, will be at St. John's Episcopal Church for his annual visitation this Sunday.

Bishop Doll will administer confrimation and preach at the 10:45 a. m. service of Morning Prayer.

Entertain At FSC Homecoming

A Folk singing group known as the "G Clefs" will provide entertainment for the first activity of the 1963 Homecoming at Frostburg State College today at 8:15 p. m. in Compton Auditorium. Following the entertainment, the Clefs will lead the audience consisting of students, alumni and friends, to the athletic field at 10 p. m. where a bonfire and pep rally will be held in preparation for the football game on Saturday. Activities Saturday begin at 9 a. m. when the Advisory Board to the President will meet followed by an alumni coffee hour in Lowndes Hall. A soccer game will be held at 11 a. m. followed by a Homecoming parade at 1 p. m. and a football game at Beall Stadium between Bridgewater College, (Virginia) and State at which time Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., will crown the Homecoming Queen. Homecoming dances will be held at Gunter Hall and Moon Glo Skating Rink. On Sunday at 2:30 p. m. a testimonial program for Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., will be held in Compton Auditorium.

Aldersgate Services Set

MT. SAVAGE—Participating in the 225th anniversary commemoration of the Aldersgate Experience of John Wesley, Mt. Savage Methodist Church will have special services October 13 through October 21. Each evening a different pastor of an area Methodist Church will bring the Aldersgate message, and special music will be presented by the churches.

Rev. William C. Harpold, pastor of the church, will preach at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, and the following pastors will preach on the date indicated:

October 14, Rev. Fred E. Thorn, Mapleside-Melvin churches; October 15, Rev. E. Kyle Sawyers, Zion - Centenary Methodist churches; Rev. Carlton M. Harris, Centre Street church, on October 16.

On October 17, Rev. William A. Anderson, pastor of the Eckhart circuit, will be presented with special music. Rev. Harold B. Wright, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg is scheduled for October 18, and Rev. Robert E. Moales, from Grace Methodist Church, Cumberland, will be the preacher for October 19.

On Sunday, October 20, Rev. William Sansom, pastor of the Fairview Methodist Church will bring the message, at the last service on October 21, Rev. Ramon F. Reno, of Park Place Methodist Church, will preach.

The Senior and Chapel choirs of the Mt. Savage church will sing on several occasions during the services, together with the visiting singers and musicians.

The longest living creature in the world today is said to be the tortoise, some of them living to be 300 years old.

East resorted to sleight-of-hand to pull the rug from under the declarer in today's three no trump contract. With a club lead it would appear to the world that South has 10 sure tricks, so we feel it is expedient to attend to the telling of our tale without further ado.

West opened the ten of clubs which South won in his hand with the jack. A diamond was led to the dummy's ten and permitted to hold the trick. On the diamond continuation, East rose with the ace and observed that his partner discarded the deuce of spades.

It was quite apparent to East that the defense had no future in the black suits, and that the only possible place to establish tricks was in hearts. The routine play at this point would be the seven of hearts in the hope that partner has a card to top the dummy's ten. It appeared to East, however, that a more drastic course of action was indicated, inasmuch as declarer appeared to have an abundance of tricks available to him as soon as he could regain the lead.

East shifted to the queen of hearts, and his desperation move placed the declarer in an awkward position. Had South been gifted with X-ray vision, he would have covered the queen with his king in order to establish North's ten as a third round stopper in the suit.

It appeared to declarer that the queen of hearts had been led from a holding which included the jack as well and possibly the nine. If he covered with the king and it lost to West's ace, the dummy's ten of hearts would be subjected to a successful finesse on the return, enabling the defense to run the suit.

South therefore chose to play low from his hand permitting East to hold the lead. He ducked the continuation around to the ten, and it came as a distinct shock when West produced, in turn, the jack, ace, and another heart to set the contract.

It has been calculated that since 1496 B. C., there have been only 230 years of peace throughout the civilized world.

Moorefield Lions Raise $393.40 In Broom Sale

MOOREFIELD—The members of the Moorefield Club sold over 21 dozen brooms in the annual broom sale Monday night. A total of $393.40 was turned in to Orvon. Bean, treasurer of the broom sale committee under Guy Lang, chairman. Additional brooms are available at Bean's office.

In the short business meeting at Hotel McNeill prior to the broom sale, C. A. Ludwick Jr., chairman of the annual Hallowe'en Parade sponsored by Moorefield Lions, announced the parade would be held Friday night, November 1 and will be open to all youngsters in the area.

The annual parade will be held on the same evening as the PTA Festival at Moorefield Graded School with the parade ending at the grade school festival.

Visitors at meeting included Ernest Cooper, Elkins, and the deputy district governor for this district of the Lions Clubs. Andy Anderson, Ripley, was also a visitor at the club.

Christmas Tree Growers Assoc. Meets Oct. 12

OAKLAND — The annual fall meeting of the Maryland Christmas Tree Growers Association will be held at the John Cotton plantation at Florence, Howard County, on Saturday, October 12, from 10 a. m. until late afternoon. The site is at the junction of Old Annapolis Road and State Route 94, two miles South of Lisbon.

All sessions are open to the public and prospective Christmas tree growers are invited to attend. A fried chicken picnic lunch will be available at noon.

The program will include tree-planting machinery demonstrations, equipment for shearing and shaping trees, mist blowers and spraying devices for the control of insects, brush and weeds. A short business meeting and a get-acquainted session is planned.

John Cotton, of Kingslene Farm, Glenwood, is president and Paul R. Mateer Jr., Court House, Oakland, is secretary-treasurer of the association.

Currently, some 1,000 acres of Maryland land are being devoted to scientific growth and management of high-quality Christmas trees, according to Harry W. Dengler, extension forester at the University of Maryland. Several thousand acres, originally planted for Christmas tree production, have been abandoned for this purpose by their owners because of forest fires, insect damage, improper selection of species or lack or realization concerning the amount of work involved.

Most of these trees, however, will eventually reach post, pulpwood, pole and saw timber sizes and thus return the landowners some profit on their investment, Mr. Dengler added.

Bishop To Visit Frostburg Sunday

FROSTBURG — The Right Reverend Harry Lee Doll, bishop coadjuster of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, will be at St. John's Episcopal Church for his annual visitation this Sunday.

Bishop Doll will administer confirmation and preach at the 10:45 a. m. service of Morning Prayer.

Entertain At FSC Homecoming

A Folk singing group known as the "G Clefs" will provide entertainment for the first activity of the 1963 Homecoming at Frostburg State College today at 8:15 p. m. in Compton Auditorium. Following the entertainment, the Clefs will lead the audience consisting of students, alumni and friends, to the athletic field at 10 p. m. where a bonfire and pep rally will be held in preparation for the football game on Saturday. Activities Saturday begin at 9 a. m. when the Advisory Board to the President will meet followed by an alumni coffee hour in Lowndes Hall. A soccer game will be held at 11 a. m. followed by a Homecoming parade at 1 p. m. and a football game at Beall Stadium between Bridgewater College, (Virginia) and State at which time Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., will crown the Homecoming Queen. Homecoming dances will be held at Gunter Hall and Moon Glo Skating Rink. On Sunday at 2:30 p. m. a testimonial program for Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., will be held in Compton Auditorium.

Aldersgate Services Set

MT. SAVAGE—Participating in the 225th anniversary commemoration of the Aldersgate Experience of John Wesley, Mt. Savage Methodist Church will have special services October 13 through October 21. Each evening a different pastor of an area Methodist Church will bring the Aldersgate message, and special music will be presented by the churches.

Rev. William C. Harpold, pastor of the church, will preach at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, and the following pastors will preach on the date indicated:

October 14, Rev. Fred E. Thorn, Mapleside-Melvin churches; October 15, Rev. E. Kyle Sawyers, Zion - Centenary Methodist churches; Rev. Carlton M. Harris, Centre Street church, on October 16.

On October 17, Rev. William A. Anderson, pastor of the Eckhart circuit, will be presented with special music. Rev. Harold B. Wright, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg is scheduled for October 18, and Rev. Robert E. Moales, from Grace Methodist Church, Cumberland, will be the preacher for October 19.

On Sunday, October 20, Rev. William Sansom, pastor of the Fairview Methodist Church will bring the message, at the last service on October 21, Rev. Ramon F. Reno, of Park Place Methodist Church, will preach.

The Senior and Chapel choirs of the Mt. Savage church will sing on several occasions during the services, together with the visiting singers and musicians.

The longest living creature in the world today is said to be the tortoise, some of them living to be 300 years old.

Opening lead: Ten of ♣ East resorted to sleight-of-hand to pull the rug from under the declarer in today's three no trump contract. With a club lead it would appear to the world that South has 10 sure tricks, so we feel it is expedient to attend to the telling of our tale without further ado.

West opened the ten of clubs which South won in his hand with the jack. A diamond was led to the dummy's ten and permitted to hold the trick. On the diamond continuation, East rose with the ace and observed that his partner discarded the deuce of spades.

It was quite apparent to East that the defense had no future in the black suits, and that the only possible place to establish tricks was in hearts. The routine play at this point would be the seven of hearts in the hope that partner has a card to top the dummy's ten. It appeared to East, however, that a more drastic course of action was indicated, inasmuch as declarer appeared to have an abundance of tricks available to him as soon as he could regain the lead.

East shifted to the queen of hearts, and his desperation move placed the declarer in an awkward position. Had South been gifted with X-ray vision, he would have covered the queen with his king in order to establish North's ten as a third round stopper in the suit.

It appeared to declarer that the queen of hearts had been led from a holding which included the jack as well and possibly the nine. If he covered with the king and it lost to West's ace, the dummy's ten of hearts would be subjected to a successful finesse on the return, enabling the defense to run the suit.

South therefore chose to play low from his hand permitting East to hold the lead. He ducked the continuation around to the ten, and it came as a distinct shock when West produced, in turn, the jack, ace, and another heart to set the contract.

It has been calculated that since 1496 B. C., there have been only 230 years of peace throughout the civilized world.

Moorefield Lions Raise $393.40 In Broom Sale

MOOREFIELD—The members of the Moorefield Club sold over 21 dozen brooms in the annual broom sale Monday night. A total of $393.40 was turned in to Orvon. Bean, treasurer of the broom sale committee under Guy Lang, chairman. Additional brooms are available at Bean's office.

In the short business meeting at Hotel McNeill prior to the broom sale, C. A. Ludwick Jr., chairman of the annual Hallowe'en Parade sponsored by Moorefield Lions, announced the parade would be held Friday night, November 1 and will be open to all youngsters in the area.

The annual parade will be held on the same evening as the PTA Festival at Moorefield Graded School with the parade ending at the grade school festival.

Visitors at meeting included Ernest Cooper, Elkins, and the deputy district governor for this district of the Lions Clubs. Andy Anderson, Ripley, was also a visitor at the club.

Barton Briefs

Barton Unit 189, American Legion Auxiliary will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Legion home. Mrs. Jane Davis, president, will preside.

The United Organization of the Barton Area will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Legion home.

Attend Regional Meeting Of WVEA

Among the principals at the opening session of the West Virginia Education Association's regional meeting in Keyser are the following: Phares Reeder, executive secretary; Miss Elizabeth Anne Meek, president; Dr. Paul Miller, president of WVU, who gave the principal address; and Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College which is hosting the meeting.

Homemakers To Sponsor Midlothian 4-H Club

FROSTBURG—At the meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, plans were made to sponsor a 4-H Unit under the leadership of Mrs. Nat Workman. The meeting was held in the educational building of the First United Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Herman Winters led the group in the "Lord's Prayer" and Mrs. Blaine Willetts gave the history of the hymn of the month.

Roll call was answered with "Show and Tell, My Favorite Artistic Possession."

Miss Mary Wise, home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on "Good Design For a Price." Mrs. James Scarpelli won the gift of the month.

Twenty members and five guests attended. The guests were Mrs. Irene McDonald, Miss Mary Wise, Mrs. Nat Workman, Mrs. Earl Davis and Mrs. Albert Fisher. The meeting closed with the singing of "The Yellow Rose of Texas," and "Moonlight and Roses."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stanley Ritchie and Mrs. Thomas Simmons. The Halloween motif was carried out in the table decorations with a large bowl of yellow and gold chrysanthemums in the center. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Oren O'Neal, Bedford Road, Cumberland.

Prize Winners

MT. SAVAGE — Mrs. Bertha Farrell, Mrs. Vivian Mullaney and Miss Martha Reagan were prize winners at a recent meeting of the Cheerful Card Club. Mrs. Adelaide Logsdon was the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bertha Farrell October 14.

PSC Selects Two Freshmen Cheerleaders

KEYSER—At a recent meeting of the Student Council at Potomac State College, two freshmen, Miss LeAnn Sindy and Miss Gail Onyun, were selected to join with the four sophomore cheerleaders. The two were chosen following tryouts.

Miss Sindy, from Cresaptown, is a graduate of Allegany High School, Cumberland, and is a home economics major. Her sister, the former Miss Kitty Sindy, was also a cheerleader here. Miss Onyun's home is in Fairfax, Va. She is a graduate of Fairfax High School where she was a cheerleader. Now a liberal arts major here, she studied nursing at Maryview Hospital last year.

Holdovers from last season on the cheerleading roster include Miss Kathy Carvey, former Keyser High cheerleader and a speech therapy major; Miss Carol Misers, KHS graduate and physical education major; Miss Penny Conley, South Charleston High School graduate and general secretarial science major; and Miss Joyce Fike, a former Bruceton Mills High School student and a general secretarial science major.

Miss Margaret E. Rafter, director of women's physical education, tutors the cheerleaders.

Students From 13 States Enroll At College In Keyser

KEYSER — Potomac State's 667 students come from 13 states and the District of Columbia with the largest number, 325, being from West Virginia.

Thirty-seven of West Virginia's counties claim students on campus, with the greatest numbers from Mineral, 128; Harrison, 22; Preston, 19; Grant, 18; Hampshire, 15; and Pendleton, Randolph, and Wood, with 11 each.

Following West Virginia in enrollment are Pennsylvania, 31; Maryland, 76; Virginia, 54; New Jersey, 47; New York, 11; Delaware, 10; District of Columbia, 7; Ohio, 5; and Massachusetts, 2. Represented by one student are Florida, Maine, Vermont, and Connecticut.

High schools in West Virginia with the greatest representation at Potomac State are Keyser, 83; Romney, 13; Petersburg, 12; Parkersburg and Piedmont, 11 each.

Club Attends Weekend Party

MT. SAVAGE — Mrs. Vincent Cole, Baltimore, recently entertained the Cheerful Card Club at her home with a weekend party. Cards were played and a buffet luncheon was served on Saturday and a turkey dinner was served on Sunday.

Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. Mae Blank, Mrs. Adelaide Logsdon, Mrs. Nellie Hotchkiss and Mrs. Alice Meade. Others attending were Mrs. Bertha Farrell, Mrs. Vivian Mullaney and Miss Martha Reagan.

Attend Regional Meeting Of WVEA

Among the principals at the opening session of the West Virginia Education Association's regional meeting in Keyser are the following: Phares Reeder, executive secretary; Miss Elizabeth Anne Meek, president; Dr. Paul Miller, president of WVU, who gave the principal address; and Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College which is hosting the meeting.

Homemakers To Sponsor Midlothian 4-H Club

FROSTBURG—At the meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, plans were made to sponsor a 4-H Unit under the leadership of Mrs. Nat Workman. The meeting was held in the educational building of the First United Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Herman Winters led the group in the "Lord's Prayer" and Mrs. Blaine Willetts gave the history of the hymn of the month.

Prize Winners

MT. SAVAGE — Mrs. Bertha Farrell, Mrs. Vivian Mullaney and Miss Martha Reagan were prize winners at a recent meeting of the Cheerful Card Club. Mrs. Adelaide Logsdon was the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bertha Farrell October 14.

Roll call was answered with "Show and Tell, My Favorite Artistic Possession."

Miss Mary Wise, home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on "Good Design For a Price." Mrs. James Scarpelli won the gift of the month.

Twenty members and five guests attended. The guests were Mrs. Irene McDonald, Miss Mary Wise, Mrs. Nat Workman, Mrs. Earl Davis and Mrs. Albert Fisher. The meeting closed with the singing of "The Yellow Rose of Texas," and "Moonlight and Roses."

Attends Seminar

FROSTBURG—Chester C. Stewart, 321 East Main Street, employed at Montgomery Ward store in Cumberland, was among 28 Ward carpet specialists who recently attended a three-day carpet seminar at the mills of C. H. Masland & Sons in Carlisle, Pa.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stanley Ritchie and Mrs. Thomas Simmons. The Halloween motif was carried out in the table decorations with a large bowl of yellow and gold chrysanthemums in the center. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Oren O'Neal, Bedford Road, Cumberland.

PSC Selects Two Freshmen Cheerleaders

KEYSER—At a recent meeting of the Student Council at Potomac State College, two freshmen, Miss LeAnn Sindy and Miss Gail Onyun, were selected to join with the four sophomore cheerleaders. The two were chosen following tryouts.

Miss Sindy, from Cresaptown, is a graduate of Allegany High School, Cumberland, and is a home economics major. Her sister, the former Miss Kitty Sindy, was also a cheerleader here. Miss Onyun's home is in Fairfax, Va. She is a graduate of Fairfax High School where she was a cheerleader. Now a liberal arts major here, she studied nursing at Maryview Hospital last year.

Holdovers from last season on the cheerleading roster include Miss Kathy Carvey, former Keyser High cheerleader and a speech therapy major; Miss Carol Misers, KHS graduate and physical education major; Miss Penny Conley, South Charleston High School graduate and general secretarial science major; and Miss Joyce Fike, a former Bruceton Mills High School student and a general secretarial science major.

Miss Margaret E. Rafter, director of women's physical education, tutors the cheerleaders.

Students From 13 States Enroll At College In Keyser

KEYSER — Potomac State's 667 students come from 13 states and the District of Columbia with the largest number, 325, being from West Virginia.

Thirty-seven of West Virginia's counties claim students on campus, with the greatest numbers from Mineral, 128; Harrison, 22; Preston, 19; Grant, 18; Hampshire, 15; and Pendleton, Randolph, and Wood, with 11 each.

Following West Virginia in enrollment are Pennsylvania, 31; Maryland, 76; Virginia, 54; New Jersey, 47; New York, 11; Delaware, 10; District of Columbia, 7; Ohio, 5; and Massachusetts, 2. Represented by one student are Florida, Maine, Vermont, and Connecticut.

High schools in West Virginia with the greatest representation at Potomac State are Keyser, 83; Romney, 13; Petersburg, 12; Parkersburg and Piedmont, 11 each.

Club Attends Weekend Party

MT. SAVAGE — Mrs. Vincent Cole, Baltimore, recently entertained the Cheerful Card Club at her home with a weekend party. Cards were played and a buffet luncheon was served on Saturday and a turkey dinner was served on Sunday.

Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. Mae Blank, Mrs. Adelaide Logsdon, Mrs. Nellie Hotchkiss and Mrs. Alice Meade. Others attending were Mrs. Bertha Farrell, Mrs. Vivian Mullaney and Miss Martha Reagan.

Double Dates

MANCHESTER, Iowa (AP) — When Mrs. Francis Deutmeyer and Mrs. Robert Forkenbrock gave birth to daughters the same day in Manchester Hospital it wasn't the only special date they had in common. The two women had also been married on the same day, in ceremonies held only an hour apart.

Sentencing Of Youths Charged In Thefts Delayed

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris withheld sentencing of three youths charged with the theft of auto tires from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant property which were valued at $3,549.21 pending a pre-sentence investigation by James Lewis, state probation officer.

The three entered guilty pleas through their attorney, Edward J. Ryan. They are Oliver R. Knipple, Joseph E. Knipple and Eugene S. George.

State's Attorney James S. Getty informed the court that none of the three has a prior police record. The thefts occurred on three separate occasions in May, July and September.

The youths were "shooting mark" near the plant one day when they noticed a depression beneath the fence of the plant. During the nighttime the youths went to the plant and made their way to a loading platform and stole about 75 tires on the three occasions.

The tires were hidden in the wooded area behind the plant and on various occasions were moved to the attic of homes when the parents were out. Five of the tires were sold and the rest were located by William F. Baker, county investigator.

Arraigned yesterday before Judge Harris was Norman H. White, city, charged in four cases of forging money orders of the check corporation at local business establishments. A not guilty plea was entered and a jury trial prayed.

MANCHESTER, Iowa (AP) — When Mrs. Francis Deutmeyer and Mrs. Robert Forkenbrock gave birth to daughters the same day in Manchester Hospital it wasn't the only special date they had in common. The two women had also been married on the same day, in ceremonies held only an hour apart.

Sentencing Of Youths Charged In Thefts Delayed

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris withheld sentencing of three youths charged with the theft of auto tires from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant property which were valued at $3,549.21 pending a pre-sentence investigation by James Lewis, state probation officer.

The three entered guilty pleas through their attorney, Edward J. Ryan. They are Oliver R. Knipple, Joseph E. Knipple and Eugene S. George.

State's Attorney James S. Getty informed the court that none of the three has a prior police record. The thefts occurred on three separate occasions in May, July and September.

The youths were "shooting mark" near the plant one day when they noticed a depression beneath the fence of the plant. During the nighttime the youths went to the plant and made their way to a loading platform and stole about 75 tires on the three occasions.

The tires were hidden in the wooded area behind the plant and on various occasions were moved to the attic of homes when the parents were out. Five of the tires were sold and the rest were located by William F. Baker, county investigator.

Arraigned yesterday before Judge Harris was Norman H. White, city, charged in four cases of forging money orders of the check corporation at local business establishments. A not guilty plea was entered and a jury trial prayed.

Unbeaten Fort Hill To Play Winless North High Here Tonight

Sentinels Go After Sixth Straight Win

LaSalle To Invade Somerset; Romney To Host Ridgeley

Undefeated Fort Hill High School and winless North Hagerstown High School clash here tonight at 8 o'clock in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League game while the LaSalle Explorers invade Pennsylvania to tackle the Somerset High School Eagles.

Coach Charley Lattimer's Sentinels (5-0) will be shooting for victory No. 3 in the six-school CVAL. To date, Fort Hill has routed Martinsburg, 42-7, and Frederick, 33-0 in league engagements and figures to take the measure of Jimmy Orr's Hubs who are 0-5 overall, 0-2 in the CVAL and have dropped 16 consecutive games since 1961.

LaSalle Visits Somerset

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson's Explorers cracked a 3-game losing streak last week by spilling Keyser High School, 18-6, and they'll be meeting Somerset for the second straight season. The Keystone Staters clobbered LaSalle last year by the score of 40 to 6.

Beall High School's Mountaineers invade West Virginia tonight to meet the Applemen of Musselman High School, a team they whipped last year to the tune of 39-0. Beall fell below the .500 mark last week (2-3) by dropping a 19-13 decision to Romney High School but a win under the lights tonight could even up their win and lost record for the campaign.

Ridgeley At Romney

Roger Parker's undefeated Romney High School Pioneers will go after victory No. 6 when they tackle the Ridgeley High Blackhawks today at 1:30 p. m., at Romney. The Pioneers are setting the pace in the Potomac Valley Conference with a 4-0 record while Ridgeley is 2-2 in the league and 3-2 overall.

In another P.V.C. engagement this afternoon, Coach Wayne Barr's Petersburg High Vikings, victors in five out of six games, should bag win No. 6 when they host the Circleville Indians who are 1-4 overall and 1-1 in the conference. The Vikings have copped three out of four league contests.

Parsons Hosts Southern

Southern High, off to a good start under Leroy Bolding, will invade Tucker county, W. Va., tonight to meet the Parsons High School Panthers who have won four out of six games. The Highlanders are 4-1 and have knocked off St. Francis of Morgantown and Northern's Huskies in their last two starts.

Northern High was scheduled to play Mountaineer High of Davis at Thomas today but the game has been rescheduled for Saturday at 8 p. m., and will be staged at Southern High School Field in Oakland.

Hot Springs At Franklin

Franklin High's Panthers (1-4) will play host to Valley High School of Hot Springs, Va., this afternoon and in another daylight contest Berkeley Springs' winless Indians tackle the Panthers at Charles Town.

Bedford High's Bisons, who have knocked off Somerset, 12-7, Shade Township, 13-7, LaSalle 27-13 and Portage 20-19 in order after dropping the opener to Everett, entertain Cresson High School tonight at 8 o'clock.

Dick Stuart Voted AL's Comeback Player Of Year

Has 42 Homers, 118 RBIs For Red Sox; Lary Is Runner-Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Stuart, the long ball-hitting first baseman who took advantage of Boston's short left field fence the past season after a disastrous year with Pittsburgh, was named the American League's comeback player-of-the-year Thursday.

The husky, right-handed batter received 36 votes of the 64 cast by baseball writers in the annual Associated Press poll. Frank Lary, Detroit pitcher, was second with six votes. Steve Barber, Baltimore pitcher, third baseman Frank Malzone of Boston and outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit were named on three ballots.

Stuart moved to Boston in an inter league trade last winter after hitting only .228 with 16 homers and 64 runs batted in for the Pirates. This past season, he led the American League in runs batted in with 118, was the runner-up to Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew in home runs with 42 and batted .261.

Stuart's home run and RBI totals enabled him to become the first player in history to record 35 or more homers and 100 or more RBIs in each major league. He slammed 35 homers and drove in 117 runs for Pittsburgh in the National League in 1961.

Twenty-five of Stuart's 42 home runs in 1963 were hit in Boston's Fenway Park, where the distance from home plate to the left field fence measures 316 feet. In Forbes Field, the Pirates' ball park, the left field fence is 365 feet away.

John Quinn, Phils' GM, In Hospital, After Collapse

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — General Manager John Quinn of the Philadelphia Phillies collapsed in a Center-City restaurant Thursday and was taken to Jefferson Hospital where he was reported "resting comfortably."

A hospital spokesman said it was not determined immediately what caused Quinn to collapse during a function for retiring Phils farm director Gene Martin at Old Bookbinders Restaurant. The spokesman recalled that in 1959 Quinn had suffered a "gastro upset."

The hospital said there probably would be no diagnosis until Friday pending the completion of tests.

Quinn was conscious when brought to the hospital, the spokesman said.

The 55-year-old Quinn was stricken after giving a brief talk at the luncheon, which also served to introduce Clay Dennis Jr., Martins' successor.

Bruce Booters Hand Flintstone Third Shutout

Rich Bosley Scores Twice In 4-0 Game

Bruce High School's Bulldogs crashed the win column for the first time this season when they defeated the Flintstone High School Aggies yesterday at Westernport by the score of 4-0.

The victory gave Coach Leonard Ritchie's booters a 1-1-1 record while Flintstone suffered its third straight shutout defeat in the WMI Soccer League.

Bruce had lost to Valley, 4-0, and played a scoreless tie with Mt. Savage in its two previous engagements.

Center forward Richard Bosley accounted for two of Bruce's four field goals, one in the first period and the other in the final stanza. Jimmy Raines and Jack McIntyre kicked the other goals in the third quarter.

Gary Smith, Frank Price, Lloyd Fike and Jimmy Raines of Bruce and Don Duvall and Carl Thomas of Flintstone were the outstanding players.

Beall High (1-1-0) is scheduled to play at Valley High (2-1-0) today.

Elk Garden And Romney Harriers Win

Romney High School and Elk Garden High School dominated the show in the five cross-country meets staged yesterday over the Fort Cumberland Golf Course.

The Pioneers from Hampshire county defeated Allegany's Campers in Class A and B meets while Elk Garden won triangular meets in Classes A, B and C from Fort Hill, Oldtown and Allegany.

Romney defeated Allegany in Class A, 19-37, with Allen Hott of the Pioneers covering the course in 10 minutes, 52 seconds for the best time of the day. Robert Rinker paced Romney to a 17-38 decision over Allegany in the Class B competition.

Elk Garden, led by John Bobo, won in Class A with 25 points to Fort Hill's 48 and Oldtown's 59. The Mineral Countians copped the Class B tests with 23 tallies to Fort Hill's 32 and Oldtown's 95. Douglas Love of Elk Garden paced the field of 21 hill and dale contestants.

Elmo Evans sparked Elk Garden to victory in Class C. The Elks had low score of 30, Fort Hill 40 and Allegany 51.

Sullivan Is Named Starting Quarterback For Terps Saturday

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland football coach Tom Nugent pulled his biggest surprise of the season Thursday when he announced that sophomore Bob Sullivan will be the staring quarterback against North Carolina Saturday.

Nugent apparently had been grooming junior Mike Funk a the replacement for No. 1 quarterback Dick Shiner, who suffered a hip injury against Duke last week. But after two days of hard contact work, Nugent said Sullivan, from Wilmington, N. C., would get the call.

"Bob's a real smart kid, throws a nice pass and has been running his unit well," Nugent said. The coach added that Shiner, if he plays at all, will be used in a limited capacity.

Mets Hire Harder, Westrum; Hemus And White Are Released

NEW YORK (AP) — George Weiss said he was operating on the basis that Casey Stengel will manage the New York Mets again in 1964 as he announced Thursday the hiring of coaches Mel Harder and Wes Westrum and the firing of Solly Hemus and Ernie White.

"I assume Casey will be back," said Weiss. "If he wanted to leave he would say so. I expect him back. He has not indicated to me that he will not be on the job again."

Weiss announced the coaching changes at a news conference.

As Cookie Lavagetto was headed for the Giants as a coach the release of Hemus and White made a clean sweep of the coaching staff. Weiss said White would remain in the organization, probably as a pitching coach in the minor leagues.

Cardinals Retain Coaching Staff

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — General Manager Bing Devine announced Thursday night that the entire St. Louis Cardinal coaching staff has been retained for next season, and Manager Johnny Keane said "I couldn't ask for a better group."

The coaches include Howard Pollet, Vern Benson, Red Schoendienst and Joe Schultz, who Keane said "were invaluable to me and to the ball club," which finished in second place in the National League standings.

Keyser Frosh Triumph, 40-0

Beat West Virginia Deaf School Eleven

Steve Stanislawczyk and Tom Landis accounted for two touchdowns each as the Keyser High School freshmen defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf frosh gridders yesterday at Keyser by the score of 40-0.

Stanislawczyk scored TDs on five and 80 yard runs, kicked two extra points and passed to Bob Hollingsworth and Scott Wilson for two other conversions. Landis tallied on dashes of 30 and 61 yards, Wilson ran 45 yards for a six-pointer and David Rice smashed over from the one for the final score.

Keyser gained 306 yards rushing to 66 for the WVSD and reeled off seven first downs to the visitors' two. KHS tried six passed but failed to connect and the Romney team was 0-3 in the same department. Keyser had one pass interception and was penalized 50 yards to the losers' six. WVSD punted five times for an average of 23 yards. Each team lost the ball on downs once.

Score by periods:

Keyser	13	14	7	6	—40

Touchdowns: Keyser—Stanislawczyk 2 (5 and 80 yard runs); Landis 2 (30 and 61 yard runs); Wilson (45 yard run); Rice (1 yard plunge).

Points after touchdowns: Keyser—Stanislawczyk 2 (kicks); Hollingsworth (pass from Stanislawczyk); Wilson (pass from Stanislawczyk).

Sentinels Go After Sixth Straight Win

LaSalle To Invade Somerset; Romney To Host Ridgeley

Undefeated Fort Hill High School and winless North Hagerstown High School clash here tonight at 8 o'clock in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League game while the LaSalle Explorers invade Pennsylvania to tackle the Somerset High School Eagles.

Coach Charley Lattimer's Sentinels (5-0) will be shooting for victory No. 3 in the six-school CVAL. To date, Fort Hill has routed Martinsburg, 42-7, and Frederick, 33-0 in league engagements and figures to take the measure of Jimmy Orr's Hubs who are 0-5 overall, 0-2 in the CVAL and have dropped 16 consecutive games since 1961.

LaSalle Visits Somerset

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson's Explorers cracked a 3-game losing streak last week by spilling Keyser High School, 18-6, and they'll be meeting Somerset for the second straight season. The Keystone Staters clobbered LaSalle last year by the score of 40 to 6.

Beall High School's Mountaineers invade West Virginia tonight to meet the Applemen of Musselman High School, a team they whipped last year to the tune of 39-0. Beall fell below the .500 mark last week (2-3) by dropping a 19-13 decision to Romney High School but a win under the lights tonight could even up their win and lost record for the campaign.

Ridgeley At Romney

Roger Parker's undefeated Romney High School Pioneers will go after victory No. 6 when they tackle the Ridgeley High Blackhawks today at 1:30 p. m., at Romney. The Pioneers are setting the pace in the Potomac Valley Conference with a 4-0 record while Ridgeley is 2-2 in the league and 3-2 overall.

In another P.V.C. engagement this afternoon, Coach Wayne Barr's Petersburg High Vikings, victors in five out of six games, should bag win No. 6 when they host the Circleville Indians who are 1-4 overall and 1-1 in the conference. The Vikings have copped three out of four league contests.

Parsons Hosts Southern

Southern High, off to a good start under Leroy Bolding, will invade Tucker county, W. Va., tonight to meet the Parsons High School Panthers who have won four out of six games. The Highlanders are 4-1 and have knocked off St. Francis of Morgantown and Northern's Huskies in their last two starts.

Northern High was scheduled to play Mountaineer High of Davis at Thomas today but the game has been rescheduled for Saturday at 8 p. m., and will be staged at Southern High School Field in Oakland.

Hot Springs At Franklin

Franklin High's Panthers (1-4) will play host to Valley High School of Hot Springs, Va., this afternoon and in another daylight contest Berkeley Springs' winless Indians tackle the Panthers at Charles Town.

Bedford High's Bisons, who have knocked off Somerset, 12-7, Shade Township, 13-7, LaSalle 27-13 and Portage 20-19 in order after dropping the opener to Everett, entertain Cresson High School tonight at 8 o'clock.

Dick Stuart Voted AL's Comeback Player Of Year

Has 42 Homers, 118 RBIs For Red Sox; Lary Is Runner-Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Stuart, the long ball-hitting first baseman who took advantage of Boston's short left field fence the past season after a disastrous year with Pittsburgh, was named the American League's comeback player-of-the-year Thursday.

The husky, right-handed batter received 36 votes of the 64 cast by baseball writers in the annual Associated Press poll. Frank Lary, Detroit pitcher, was second with six votes. Steve Barber, Baltimore pitcher, third baseman Frank Malzone of Boston and outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit were named on three ballots.

Stuart moved to Boston in an inter league trade last winter after hitting only .228 with 16 homers and 64 runs batted in for the Pirates. This past season, he led the American League in runs batted in with 118, was the runner-up to Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew in home runs with 42 and batted .261.

Stuart's home run and RBI totals enabled him to become the first player in history to record 35 or more homers and 100 or more RBIs in each major league. He slammed 35 homers and drove in 117 runs for Pittsburgh in the National League in 1961.

Twenty-five of Stuart's 42 home runs in 1963 were hit in Boston's Fenway Park, where the distance from home plate to the left field fence measures 316 feet. In Forbes Field, the Pirates' ball park, the left field fence is 365 feet away.

John Quinn, Phils' GM, In Hospital, After Collapse

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — General Manager John Quinn of the Philadelphia Phillies collapsed in a Center-City restaurant Thursday and was taken to Jefferson Hospital where he was reported "resting comfortably."

A hospital spokesman said it was not determined immediately what caused Quinn to collapse during a function for retiring Phils farm director Gene Martin at Old Bookbinders Restaurant. The spokesman recalled that in 1959 Quinn had suffered a "gastro upset."

The hospital said there probably would be no diagnosis until Friday pending the completion of tests.

Quinn was conscious when brought to the hospital, the spokesman said.

Bruce Booters Hand Flintstone Third Shutout

Rich Bosley Scores Twice In 4-0 Game

Bruce High School's Bulldogs crashed the win column for the first time this season when they defeated the Flintstone High School Aggies yesterday at Westernport by the score of 4-0.

The victory gave Coach Leonard Ritchie's booters a 1-1-1 record while Flintstone suffered its third straight shutout defeat in the WMI Soccer League.

Bruce had lost to Valley, 4-0, and played a scoreless tie with Mt. Savage in its two previous engagements.

Center forward Richard Bosley accounted for two of Bruce's four field goals, one in the first period and the other in the final stanza. Jimmy Raines and Jack McIntyre kicked the other goals in the third quarter.

Gary Smith, Frank Price, Lloyd Fike and Jimmy Raines of Bruce and Don Duvall and Carl Thomas of Flintstone were the outstanding players.

Beall High (1-1-0) is scheduled to play at Valley High (2-1-0) today.

Sullivan Is Named Starting Quarterback For Terps Saturday

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland football coach Tom Nugent pulled his biggest surprise of the season Thursday when he announced that sophomore Bob Sullivan will be the staring quarterback against North Carolina Saturday.

Nugent apparently had been grooming junior Mike Funk a the replacement for No. 1 quarterback Dick Shiner, who suffered a hip injury against Duke last week. But after two days of hard contact work, Nugent said Sullivan, from Wilmington, N. C., would get the call.

"Bob's a real smart kid, throws a nice pass and has been running his unit well," Nugent said. The coach added that Shiner, if he plays at all, will be used in a limited capacity.

Mets Hire Harder, Westrum; Hemus And White Are Released

NEW YORK (AP) — George Weiss said he was operating on the basis that Casey Stengel will manage the New York Mets again in 1964 as he announced Thursday the hiring of coaches Mel Harder and Wes Westrum and the firing of Solly Hemus and Ernie White.

"I assume Casey will be back," said Weiss. "If he wanted to leave he would say so. I expect him back. He has not indicated to me that he will not be on the job again."

Weiss announced the coaching changes at a news conference.

As Cookie Lavagetto was headed for the Giants as a coach the release of Hemus and White made a clean sweep of the coaching staff. Weiss said White would remain in the organization, probably as a pitching coach in the minor leagues.

Cardinals Retain Coaching Staff

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — General Manager Bing Devine announced Thursday night that the entire St. Louis Cardinal coaching staff has been retained for next season, and Manager Johnny Keane said "I couldn't ask for a better group."

The coaches include Howard Pollet, Vern Benson, Red Schoendienst and Joe Schultz, who Keane said "were invaluable to me and to the ball club," which finished in second place in the National League standings.

Keyser Frosh Triumph, 40-0

Beat West Virginia Deaf School Eleven

Steve Stanislawczyk and Tom Landis accounted for two touchdowns each as the Keyser High School freshmen defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf frosh gridders yesterday at Keyser by the score of 40-0.

Stanislawczyk scored TDs on five and 80 yard runs, kicked two extra points and passed to Bob Hollingsworth and Scott Wilson for two other conversions. Landis tallied on dashes of 30 and 61 yards, Wilson ran 45 yards for a six-pointer and David Rice smashed over from the one for the final score.

Keyser gained 306 yards rushing to 66 for the WVSD and reeled off seven first downs to the visitors' two. KHS tried six passed but failed to connect and the Romney team was 0-3 in the same department. Keyser had one pass interception and was penalized 50 yards to the losers' six. WVSD punted five times for an average of 23 yards. Each team lost the ball on downs once.

Score by periods:

Keyser	13	14	7	6	—40

Touchdowns: Keyser—Stanislawczyk 2 (5 and 80 yard runs); Landis 2 (30 and 61 yard runs); Wilson (45 yard run); Rice (1 yard plunge).

Points after touchdowns: Keyser—Stanislawczyk 2 (kicks); Hollingsworth (pass from Stanislawczyk); Wilson (pass from Stanislawczyk).

Mets Obtain Jack Fisher For $30,000

NY Also Gets Haas, Colts Buy Raymond

CINCINNATI (AP) — The New York Mets grabbed 20-year-old infielder Billy Haas from Los Angeles and pitcher Jack Fisher from San Francisco and the Houston Colts took relief pitcher Claude Raymond from Milwaukee Thursday at $30,000 each in the National League's gesture to help the newest clubs.

Although each of the eight other teams in the league had submitted lists of four "bargains", the lowly Mets and Colts obviously did not find much comfort in the list of 33. They could have taken a total of eight but they settled for only three.

George Weiss, president of the 10th place Mets, had first pick in the three-way telephone sale that linked New York and Houston with the office of league President Warren Giles. Weiss took Haas, a Dodger bonus infielder who had counted on the Los Angeles club's player list all season as a "first-year man" although he played in Albuquerque and Santa Barbara.

After a phenomenal year at Reno in 1962 when he hit .368, 33 homers and 144 runs batted in, Haas batted .302 at Albuquerque and .328 at Santa Barbara the past season. For some reason he was not placed on the World Series list and the Dodgers had only 24 eligibles. As it turned out, this was 11 more than they needed.

Fisher is a 24-year-old righthander who spent his entire career with Baltimore until traded to the Giants last December with Billy Hoeft and Jim Coker for Mike McCormick, Stu Miller and John Orsino. Fisher was supposed to be a starter with the Giants but after 10 starts he faded to the bullpen. He wound up with a 6-10 record and only two complete games in 12 starts. One of the complete games was against the Mets.

In Houston, Paul Richards, general manager of the Colts, said "I wish we had won the right for first choice." Obviously he had hoped to grab Haas.

Richards settled for Raymond, a 26-year-old relief pitcher who had a 4-6 record and a 5.43 earned run record in 45 games with the Braves.

"As we said earlier this was just an indication that the other clubs are trying to help," said Weiss in New York. "They didn't shut the door. Unfortunately some of the players on the list were not a considerable improvement over what we had."

When the Mets and Colts were set up after the 1961 Series, they were permitted to select a total of 45 players from the others at prices ranging from $50,000 to $125,000.

Five Athletes Are Chosen For Tri-Towns Hall Fame

Posthumous Award For Bill Louden; Dinner On Nov. 3

The committee planning the second annual Tri-Towns Sports Hall of Fame banquet this week chose five outstanding former athletes of the Tri-Towns who will be admitted to the Hall of Fame this year and honored at the banquet on Sunday, Nov. 3, at the American Legion home in Westernport.

Chosen as the second group to be enrolled in the Hall of Fame were Mike Botamino, Joseph "Pepper" Inskeep, Clarence "Mickey" McBee, Harold Robertson and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth.

In addition to the five athletes chosen, the Hall of Fame committee will present a posthumous award to Mrs. Pearl Louden in memory of her husband, the late William Louden, a former resident of Piedmont and a major league player early in this century.

Raymond M. Chaney and Russell McBee, co-chairmen of the ticket committee, announced Monday night that adult and student tickets for the annual dinner will go on sale Saturday at Fred Warnick's Barber shop, the American Legion home in Westernport, the Devon Club in Luke, and the Tri-Towns Cut Rate.

Played Soccer in Spain

Mike Botamino, one of the soccer "greats" of the Tri-Towns area, began playing the sport in his native Gijon, Spain, where soccer is the national sport. He later played for Salinas college in Spain and was a candidate for the Spanish Olympic Soccer team in 1916 when the Olympics were cancelled due to World War I.

After coming to the United States in Nov. 1916, Botamino played soccer in DePew, Ill., and with the St. Louis Arrows and Donora, Pa., team. He became an employee of the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and paper in 1921 and began a long career of coaching an independent team in the Allegany County Soccer league. During that time his team, once known as the Westvaco team won county championships in 1930, 1932 and 1934. He also served as timekeeper for boxing shows held at the Devon Club in Luke.

Botamino was retired at the Luke mill in 1961 after 40 years of service and now resides at the St. Anne hotel in Piedmont. Fond of traveling, he has returned to Spain for visits in 1952, 1956, 1959, 1961 and hopes to revisit his homeland next year.

Is Versatile Athlete

Joseph "Pepper" Inskeep, a native of Barton, has been chosen by the committee as one of the most outstanding versatile athletes of the area. He joined the the Barton Braves baseball team after being discharged from the Air Force and in the spring of 1946 was picked up by Rex Bowen, scout for the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was farmed out to that club as Thomasville, N. C., and later went to the Baltimore Orioles. In 1947 he had a trial with the Pittsburgh Pirates at their trainging camp in Florida but his major league hopes were abandoned when he returned home because of a bad arm. After returning to the area, he joined the Westvaco club in the Bi-State league.

As a golfing enthusiast, Inskeep won the spring championship at the Oakland Country club in 1957, 1958 and 1959, and was club champion in 1959 and 1960. He won the Westvaco spring tournament in 1957 and 1958 and was the club champion in 1959, 1960 and 1961. He was also awarded the Gerald Haywood Memorial Trophy for golfing ability, sportsmanship and participation. After joining the Mill Creek Country club, he was club champion in 1962 and spring champ this year. In addition, he and his wife, the former Nellie Metz, are avid bowlers.

Played Under Botamino

Clarence "Mickey" McBee will be honored this year along with his former coach, Mike Botamino. McBee starred in soccer while a student at Bruce high school where he joined the squad in 1925. He was a member of the all-star team in 1926 and captain of the 1927 team which won the county championship in that year. At the same time he was named captain of the all-star team. As a senior in 1928, McBee was a member of the track and field team which went to the state track meet in Baltimore. Following his graduation from high school, "Mickey" retained his interest in soccer as he was a member of Boatmino's squads through 1935 and was a member of the group which won three county championships.

McBee was the host last fall when a reunion was held for the 1927 Bruce soccer team which won the county championship.

Started With Braves

Harold Robertson, also a native of Barton, began his career with the Barton Braves, joining the Westvaco team in 1941. The next year he had a favorable impression in a try-out with the Philadelphia Athletics at Washington but a call to military duty cut short his chances.

He returned to baseball in 1946 and continued playing until 1951. His regular position was third base and he held a batting average of over 300. Although he has hung up his spikes, Robertson, a resident of Piedmont, has been associated with the Tri-Towns Little league since 1956.

Caught for Dry Bugs

Probably before the other honorees were born, Dr. Donald P. Whitworth was holding down the position of catcher for the team sponsored by the Baltimore Dental college of the University of Maryland where he was graduated in 1912.

After returning to his native Westernport to practice dentistry, Dr. Whitworth caught for the once-famous "Dry Bugs" of the Tri-Towns area. An outfielder, he was considered an outstanding hitter at that time. He also managed the team for one year.

After practicing dentistry in the Tri-Towns for over 50 years, Dr. Whitworth retired from his practice last spring and now resides on Hammond street in Westernport.

Sunday School Loop Elects Livengood As New President

Jack Livengood, of the First Methodist Church, was elected president of the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League at a meeting held last night at the YMCA.

Mr. Livengood succeeds Floyd "Pete" Elliott, who served as president for the past five years but was not a candidate for reelection.

Other officers elected were: Cedric Miller, of First Presbyterian, vice president, and Lynn Patchin, physical director of the YMCA, secretary-treasurer.

Twenty-one churches were represented.

The next league meeting is scheduled for Thursday, October 24 at 7:30 p. m., at the YMCA.

Ford Voted AL Pitcher Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whitey Ford, a symbol of New York Yankee success for more than a decade, Thursday was named the American League's pitcher of the year by United Press International.

The 34-year old left-hander was chosen over three other strong contenders — Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox, Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins and Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox —by a committee of 24 baseball writers representing every city in the major leagues.

A 24-game winner in 1963 and winner of 199 games in 12 seasons with Yankees, Ford was the choice of 18 of the 24 experts. Radatz, Pascual and Peters each received two votes to round out the balloting.

Mets Obtain Jack Fisher For $30,000

NY Also Gets Haas, Colts Buy Raymond

CINCINNATI (AP) — The New York Mets grabbed 20-year-old infielder Billy Haas from Los Angeles and pitcher Jack Fisher from San Francisco and the Houston Colts took relief pitcher Claude Raymond from Milwaukee Thursday at $30,000 each in the National League's gesture to help the newest clubs.

Although each of the eight other teams in the league had submitted lists of four "bargains", the lowly Mets and Colts obviuosly did not find much comfort in the list of 33. They could have taken a total of eight but they settled for only three.

George Weiss, president of the 10th place Mets, had first pick in the three-way telephone sale that linked New York and Houston with the office of league President Warren Giles. Weiss took Haas, a Dodger bonus infielder who had counted on the Los Angeles club's player list all season as a "first-year man" although he played in Albuquerque and Santa Barbara.

After a phenomenal year at Reno in 1962 when he hit .368, 33 homers and 144 runs batted in, Haas batted .302 at Albuquerque and .328 at Santa Barbara the past season. For some reason he was not placed on the World Series list and the Dodgers had only 24 eligibles. As it turned out, this was 11 more than they needed.

Fisher is a 24-year-old right-hander who spent his entire career with Baltimore until traded to the Giants last December with Billy Hoeft and Jim Coker for Mike McCormick, Stu Miller and John Orsino. Fisher was supposed to be a starter with the Giants but after 10 starts he faded to the bullpen. He wound up with a 6-10 record and only two complete games in 12 starts. One of the complete games was against the Mets.

In Houston, Paul Richards, general manager of the Colts, said "I wish we had won the right for first choice." Obviously he had hoped to grab Haas.

Richards settled for Raymond, a 26-year-old relief pitcher who had a 4-6 record and a 5.43 earned run record in 45 games with the Braves.

"As we said earlier this was just an indication that the other clubs are trying to help," said Weiss in New York. "They didn't shut the door. Unfortunately some of the players on the list were not a considerable improvement over what we had."

When the Mets and Colts were set up after the 1961 Series, they were permitted to select a total of 45 players from the others at prices ranging from $50,000 to $125,000.

Five Athletes Are Chosen For Tri-Towns Hall Fame

Posthumous Award For Bill Louden; Dinner On Nov. 3

The committee planning the second annual Tri-Towns Sports Hall of Fame banquet this week chose five outstanding former athletes of the Tri-Towns who will be admitted to the Hall of Fame this year and honored at the banquet on Sunday, Nov. 3, at the American Legion home in Westernport.

Chosen as the second group to be enrolled in the Hall of Fame were Mike Botamino, Joseph "Pepper" Inskeep, Clarence "Mickey" McBee, Harold Robertson and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth.

In addition to the five athletes chosen, the Hall of Fame committee will present a posthumous award to Mrs. Pearl Louden in memory of her husband, the late William Louden, a former resident of Piedmont and a major league player early in this century.

Raymond M. Chaney and Russell McBee, co-chairmen of the ticket committee, announced Monday night that adult and student tickets for the annual dinner will go on sale Saturday at Fred Warnick's Barber shop, the American Legion home in Westernport, the Devon Club in Luke, and the Tri-Towns Cut Rate.

Played Soccer in Spain

Mike Botamino, one of the soccer "greats" of the Tri-Towns area, began playing the sport in his native Gijon, Spain, where soccer is the national sport. He later played for Salinas college in Spain and was a candidate for the Spanish Olympic Soccer team in 1916 when the Olympics were cancelled due to World War I.

After coming to the United States in Nov. 1916, Botamino played soccer in DePew, Ill., and with the St. Louis Arrows and Donora, Pa., team. He became an employee of the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and paper in 1921 and began a long career of coaching an independent team in the Allegany County Soccer league. During that time his team, once known as the Westvaco team won county championships in 1930, 1932 and 1934. He also served as timekeeper for boxing shows held at the Devon Club in Luke.

Botamino was retired at the Luke mill in 1961 after 40 years of service and now resides at the St. Anne hotel in Piedmont. Fond of traveling, he has returned to Spain for visits in 1952, 1956, 1959, 1961 and hopes to revisit his homeland next year.

Is Versatile Athlete

Joseph "Pepper" Inskeep, a native of Barton, has been chosen by the committee as one of the most outstanding versatile athletes of the area. He joined the the Barton Braves baseball team after being discharged from the Air Force and in the spring of 1946 was picked up by Rex Bowen, scout for the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was farmed out to that club as Thomasville, N. C., and later went to the Baltimore Orioles. In 1947 he had a trial with the Pittsburgh Pirates at their trainging camp in Florida but his major league hopes were abandoned when he returned home because of a bad arm. After returning to the area, he joined the Westvaco club in the Bi-State league.

As a golfing enthusiast, Inskeep won the spring championship at the Oakland Country club in 1957, 1958 and 1959, and was club champion in 1959 and 1960. He won the Westvaco spring tournament in 1957 and 1958 and was the club champion in 1959, 1960 and 1961. He was also awarded the Gerald Haywood Memorial Trophy for golfing ability, sportsmanship and participation. After joining the Mill Creek Country club, he was club champion in 1962 and spring champ this year. In addition, he and his wife, the former Nellie Metz, are avid bowlers.

Played Under Botamino

Clarence "Mickey" McBee will be honored this year along with his former coach, Mike Botamino. McBee starred in soccer while a student at Bruce high school where he joined the squad in 1925. He was a member of the all-star team in 1926 and captain of the 1927 team which won the county championship in that year. At the same time he was named captain of the all-star team. Grand Jurors Urge Speed On New Building

Driver Education In Summer Backed

Planning for the proposed new county office building and jail should be expedited, the Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury recommended in its four-page report submitted yesterday at the conclusion of its four days of activity.

C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, submitted a 15-page feasibility study to the county commissioners October 1 recommending construction of a five-story county office building and jail facing Greene Street adjacent to the Court House. The top floor of this five-story building would house the county jail.

Provisions would be made for adequate off-street parking and there would be a walkway over Prospect Square leading from the new building to the Court House.

This is what the grand jury had to say about the proposed building:

Expedite Plans

"The grand jury recommends that specialized professional talent be retained to prepare preliminary designs and estimates so that a definite project proposal can be presented and expedited. It is important that this project be processed with all possible haste to alleviate the conditions existing in the County Jail and other county buildings."

In an earlier section of the report, concerning inspections of county institutions, it is stressed that the grand jury members are united in their opinion that the present County Jail is worn out and needs replacement by a new jail. The 23 grand jurors urge that the county commissioners provide new facilities as early as this can be done.

The grand jury report states in its final section that the Board of Education should consider the feasibility of extending driver education to teenagers if necessary during summer months so that it may be available to more students who may desire this instruction.

27 Indictments

The grand jury reports that it examined 49 witnesses in four days of activity and returned 27 indictments.

In one section of its report, the grand jury encourages J. William Hunt, chairman of the Washington memorial committee, for his efforts to obtain a memorial for General George Washington to be placed on the Court House lawn. The grand jury urges U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall to use his "best influence" to obtain an immediate hearing on this proposal so that it can be determined whether federal funds are available for this monument. It was in the vicinity of the present Court House that Washington, as President of the United States, reviewed the troops during the Whisky Rebellion of 1794.

The whole fourth section of the grand jury report is devoted to inspections made by the grand jury or its committees. The grand jury found the Court House in good condition but recommended that the ceilings on several third floor offices be renewed in keeping with conditions in the rest of the building.

Congratulations were extended to the county treasurer and his staff on the efficient manner in which this operation is conducted.

The grand jury reports that the physical condition of Sylvan Retreat is good, considering the age of the building. The superintendent told the grand jury that ramps will be installed to replace existing fire escapes which will be more accessible for elderly patients. The elevator previously recommended is being installed.

Sign Variance Gets Approval

The Allegany County Board of Appeals yesterday afternoon conditionally approved the granting of a variance to Robert E. Robinette from setback requirements for an advertising sign along the south side of U. S. Route 40 on Red Hill in Election District 24.

The three-man board said it would be permissible for Mr. Robinette to keep his LaVale motel sign just two feet eight inches from the right of way if this arrangement is approved by the State Roads Commission.

Hugh A. McMullen, Mr. Robinette's attorney, pointed out that Section 203, Article 56 of the Code of Maryland gives the State Roads Commission authority to regulate advertising signs within 500 feet of a road.

The only testimony at yesterday's hearing at the Court House came from Andrew McMinimee, county planner. Mr. Robinette moved the motel advertising sign from one location to another location along Route 40 after obtaining permission from the owner of the land to place the sign directly in front of one already standing on his property. No permit was sought from either C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, or from the State Roads Commission, he said.

Members of the zoning appeals board are Everett G. Partridge, chairman; Ralph G. Cover and Wilbur Johnson.

Initial Audit Of CUF Shows $123,898.26

Early Response Pleases Leaders

The first official audit of the 1963 Mighty County United Fund was conducted yesterday and campaign leaders were heartened by the verified total of $123,898.26 at this early stage in the once-a-year united community effort.

Walter E. Dyck, manager of Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, and general chairman for this seventh campaign for 28 participating services of CUF, said he was "quite pleased" by this "big, early" response and he expressed confidence the campaign would pick up even more momentum before the next official audit.

The amount counted yesterday represents 31.4 per cent of the $394,533 goal established for Allegany and Mineral counties combined.

City Unit Praised

Established by the CUF executive committee following budget conferences with agencies by the allocations committee, which suggested budget amounts, the goal reflects the health, social service and youth needs of all areas within the two counties.

Mr. Dyck had particular praise for the Cumberland area Golden Gifts Division, co-chaired by J. Carson Dowell, executive vice president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Robert Hunter Jr., procurement administrator for Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Golden Gifts, the first division to kick off its campaign, totaled $102,091 and Mr. Dyck commented that the "enthusiasm shown by Golden Givers is starting to spread to other divisions in this community undertaking."

47.5% In Frostburg

Other audit figures from yesterday show that the Frostburg area has reached 47.5 per cent of its $14,090 goal and Keyser area Givers have hit 30.5 per cent of their $22,550 mark.

The next official campaign audit has been scheduled for Thursday, October 17.

The next official campaign audit has been scheduled for Thursday, October 17.

Members of the auditing team, described by Mr. Dyck as "watchdogs of the contributor's dollar," are Richard L. Dickerhoff and Gerald L. Harrison, of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Carroll S. Andrews, of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, B. Woodward Dyche, of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, W. Edward Jenkins, of Amcelle Plant of Celanese Fibers Company, Paul D. Long, of Potomac Edison Company (all veterans), and first-year member Eugene F. Fuller, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

Truckers Will Meet Monday

The Western Maryland Chapter of the Maryland Motor Truck Association will hold its October meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Club Monday at 6:30 p.m. A buffet dinner will be served.

Stanley Mamojek, field engineer for sales and service for Bendix Westinghouse air brakes, will talk on air brake fundamentals. He will explain new equipment improvements, and stress the need for education to get the best performance from automotive air brake systems.

Roger O. Charlton of Hagerstown, chapter president, asked that all members attend, as important matters relating to the industry will be discussed.

Mr. Charlton also extened an invitation to all non-member truckers and suppliers who may be interested in the association or in Mr. Mamojek's talk on air brakes.

Reservations may be made by telephoning C. E. Moody at PA 2-5454 or PA 4-1819, or Russell Carder, PA 4-6666.

Equity Suit Filed

Howard W. Bridges yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Naomi Bridges.

Kiwanis Observes Farm-City Week

Charles B. Leidenfrost, second from left, a Hungarian refugee who now is assistant county agent in Charles County in Southern Maryland, was guest speaker at the annual Farm-City Week program of the Kiwanis Club of Cumberland. The guest speaker is pictured with two Kiwanians and two of eight Allegany County farmers who were guests of the club yesterday. Left to right, they are Paul W. Barnett, Kiwanis president; Mr. Leidenfrost, Dr. Edwin L. Everhart, chairman of the Kiwanis committee on conservation of natural resources; Donald Brooke of Pinto and Leslie Rice of Williams Road, farmers.

Hungarian Refugee Cites Communist Farm Failures

A Hungarian refugee now living in Southern Maryland told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at a National Farm-City Week program yesterday that the sale of American wheat to the Communist countries is convincing proof that the Communist schemes for agricultural production cannot succeed.

The speaker was Charles B. Leidenfrost, now assistant county agent in Charles County. He was one of 250,000 who fled from Hungary during the 1956 revolution.

The Hungarian Communists' land reform plans failed for two basic reasons, Mr. Leidenfrost asserted. Because the farmers were given such small tracts of land and no horses, plows or seed to utilize, there was limited production. Because the state controlled the markets there was only one low price that they could get for their produce.

Mr. Leidenfrost came from a landed family. They once had about 500 acres but after World War II, when he returned from Germany, where he had been an interpreter for the Third American Army, only 50 acres were left. By 1950 this last acreage was confiscated by the state.

When his land was all gone, he trained himself as an automobile mechanic. However, by 1952 he was drafted into a labor force which built airports for Russian jet fighters.

By 1953, conditions in Hungary were modified and Mr. Leidenfrost found himself named agronomist for a socialist farmers' cooperative by which he was in charge of 1,200 acres.

Hungary, which once was called the "bread basket" of Europe has been unable to produce adequately under the state ownership of farm land. He noted that his native land had taken many of its early ideas on advanced farming methods from the English. For years it was common for Hungarian farmers to speak of the Norfolk rotation, a four-year rotation plan imported from England.

The Charles County assistant agent pointed out that there is a great difference between socialist farmers' cooperatives in Hungary, where the farmers had no choice, and the cooperative program in this country where the farmers voluntarily pool their resources.

Eight representative Allegany County farmers were guests of the Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA.

Proposed Housing Center Sites Seen By PHA Officials

Two Public Housing Authority staffers on Wednesday toured a number of sites being proposed as alternates to a location the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has under option for a 100-unit development for senior citizens.

The PHA staffers, Mr. Bowers and Mr. Miller, were accompanied by James B. Raines, executive director, and S. Russ Minter, architect for the authority, and Mayor Earl D. Chaney and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer.

An informed source said the PHA officials said that any report as a result of the inspection trip would be made directly to the Housing Authority.

Arrow 77 Beer Now Made Here

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Globe Brewing Company disclosed Thursday its beer, brewed in Baltimore since 1744, is now being produced in Cumberland.

Francis D. McNamara, president of the firm, said the brewing is being handled by the Cumberland Brewing Company, one of the oldest industries in Western Maryland. Headed by William L. Wilson, an attorney, it makes and markets Old German and Old Export beer.

McNamara said Globe will continue to distribute its product, Arrow 77. He said the transfer of the brewing operation to Cumberland has resulted in a reduction of about 80 employes on the Globe payroll.

Church Men To Meet

The Methodist Men of LaVale Methodist Church will hold a dinner meeting at 6:15 p. m. today in the fellowship hall of the church .

Harry R. Thomas, principal of McCoole School, and radiological officer for the Allegany County Civil Defense Agency, will speak. The Fazenbaker-Couter Circle of the WSCS will serve the meal.

Firemen Called To Rawlings

Volunteer firemen of Cresaptown yesterday afternoon were called to Rawlings where a utility pole caught fire.

They received the call about 1:45 p. m. but did not know the cause of the blaze.

Head Youth Commission

New officers of the Allegany County Youth Commission, elected this week, are John Allison, chairman; Mrs. Allen T. Foster, left, treasurer, and Mrs. Simeon P. Wilson, secretary. Also elected but not present when the picture was taken was Mrs. Jack Yankelevitz, vice chairman.

School Lunch Emphasis Due Next Week

There are only three school days next week because of the state teachers convention in Baltimore next Thursday, Friday and Saturday but the emphasis during this short week will be on food.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, county supervisor of cafeterias, pointed out yesterday that Governor J. Millard Tawes has signed a proclamation designating the week starting Sunday as Maryland School Lunch Week.

Governor Tawes' proclamation points out that the National School Lunch Act was a measure to safeguard the health and well being of the nation's children. He added that the school lunch program is essentially a community effort, depending on the interest and support of every citizen.

Congress approved a joint resolution last year designating the seven-day period beginning on the second Sunday of October each year as National School Lunch Week.

In many of the schools of Allegany County, parents are being invited to visit school cafeterias during this special week.

Mrs. Eaton said that for the three school days next week she has instructed the cafeteria managers to offer menus that have proved particularly popular with the boys and girls.

Monday's suggested menu calls for spaghetti with meat sauce, tossed green vegetable salad, French or Italian bread and butter, fruit cup and milk.

For Wednesday she suggests grapefruit-pineapple juice, chicken in gravy on hot biscuits, whipped potatoes, buttered green beans, ice cream and milk.

100 Observe Land Week At Fire Hall

More than 100 rural residents of Allegany County converged at the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall last night for the sixth annual observance of Maryland Land Week.

C. Lee Renaud, County planning director, spent about 10 minutes explaining the County's interim zoning ordinance and the new subdivision regulations and how they affect land owners of the county. The farmers asked the planning director a number of specific questions to obtain illustrations of how the measures affect them.

John Barton then showed a film of the safari his father Harry J. Barton, had to Kenya in Africa in January. The affair ended with ham sandwiches, coffee and cookies in the basement of the fire hall.

Wilbert Paul, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District, presided at the meeting. Nat Workman, one of the supervisors, submitted a report on the soil conservation practices carried on during the past year and what progress has been made since the district was created in 1942.

PETER J. CARPENTI

Local Lawyer's Funeral Service Slated Monday

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church for Peter J. Carpenti, local attorney and two-term Allegany County Trial Magistrate who died yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, will officiate, and interment will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home where friends will be received today, Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. The rosary will be recited at the funeral home on Sunday at 8 p. m.

Mr. Carpenti, who had been seriously ill for about a month, observed his 55th birthday September 18.

A resident of 642 Fayette Street, and active in numerous local organizations, Mr. Carpenti had been serving as the attorney general's special assistant with the Maryland State Roads Commission.

He served a term as a county trial magistrate under two Democratic governors, his latest service ending about three years ago. While in this capacity, he also served as city police magistrate.

Active In Community

Mr. Carpenti had served as president of several organizations, including the Allegany County Bar Association, Cristoforo Columbo Society, and Allegany County Chapter of Dapper Dans.

He was past grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, a charter member of Wamba Caravan, Order of Alhambra, and past commander of Victor Tambolleo Post Catholic War Veterans.

Mr. Carpenti had been serving as president of William Paca Lodge Sons of Italy, and held membership in Henry Hart Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion; Fraternal Order of Eagles; Fraternal Order of Police; and Loyal Order of Moose.

Mr. Carpenti was awarded his law degree by the University of Maryland School of Law, after receiving his bachelor's degree from Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg. He was a graduate of Allegany High School.

Upon graduation from law school he began his practice here with Harold E. Naughton and Richard F. Wertheimer, now of Washington. A few years later he joined the law firm of Simon F. Reilly and the late Estel C. Kelley. At the time of his death he was a member of the law firm of Reilly, Gerson and Carpenti.

Served In Europe

During World War II he served as an Army captain in Europe and particularly in Italy where he was an interpreter. He also worked in connection with the American Military Government at the end of the war. While in Italy he became seriously ill and was flown home.

He was active in Democratic politics and in the 1930s was one of the leaders in the Young Demo-

Group Is Named To Recommend Training Plan

Program Pushed By Industrial Unit

A committee was named here yesterday to set up a technical training program at Allegany Community College under the federal Manpower Development and Training Program.

The committee was appointed at a meeting held in the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce office under the sponsorship of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company.

Named to the committee were Rex L. Bell, area representative of the Department of Labor's apprenticeship and training program; J. D. Lonnholm, director of adult education for the Board of Education; Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the college; Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local Department of Employment Security office; Everett G. Partridge, UPIDC director, and Robert C. Petersen, Chamber of Commerce manager.

Leaders of business and industry attending the session stressed that the program should be sensitive to the area's needs.

Funds Available

The committee was asked to set up a tentative training program and submit it for consideration of the college's board of trustees.

It was asked to learn what types of post-high school training would be best suited to the needs of the area's industries and businesses.

When a decision is reached here, the proposed program would be submitted to state school and finally federal officials who administer the training program.

Mr. Partridge was told about $600,000 is available for the program in Maryland and that only Baltimore, with five classes, has taken advantage of the program.

Would Be First

If the program is adopted here, Allegany would be the first junior college in the state to make use of the federal program.

The types of training possible in colleges appears to be fairly broad, and includes training for such occupations as draftsman, stenographer, clerk-typist, salesperson, nurses aide, fry cook, tractor operator, electrician, machinist, automobile mechanic and data processing programmer.

Cites Advantages

In his opening remarks, Mr. Partridge pointed out that Allegany Community College instituted an in-training program in its chemical technology curriculum that already is receiving favorable comment from area industries.

Expansion of such technical training, he continued, would be an inducement for industries to locate here, and enhance the interest of local industries and companies in hiring ACC graduates.

Mr. Partridge stressed that Allegany County lost 5,400 persons through "out migration" in the past 10 years, most of them in the 20 to 49 age group, generally considered the most financially productive years. A third of the county's population in 1960 was 45 years of age or over, he pointed out, adding that the percentage was well above both the state and national averages.

"Business and industry provide jobs, and to get business and industry we need skills," the UPIDC director said. "If we can provide today's high school graduates with the opportunity to acquire further education and skills," Partridge said, "we will be in a better position to interest industries in locating here and in improving our economy."

Company Will Mark 'Birthday'

The 63d anniversary of the People's Life Insurance Company will be celebrated with a cocktail party, dinner and dance today, beginning at 6:15 p. m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Harry L. Thomas, chairman of arrangements, will deliver the welcome address, and Robert Collins, local manager, will be master of ceremonies.

Speakers will include Maryland Attorney General Thomas B. Finan and T. M. Jenkins, vice president of the company.

Other guests will be Harold E. Tipton, company comptroller; W. J. Cornell, Hagerstown branch manager; Elwood Rosencrance, assistant Salisbury branch manager, and Harold E. Naughton.

Assisting Mr. Thomas with arrangements are Mr. Collins, Michael Robinson, Roy McCabe and Michael Fisher.

The Modernaires from Somerset, Pa., will provide music for dancing. The dinner will begin at 7 p. m.

Torch Staffers To Attend Meeting

Six editors of The Torch, LaSalle High School student publication, and their moderator, Brother G. Richard, FSC, will attend the all-day Villanova Publications Conference today at Villanova (Pa.) University.

Torch editors Lawrence Grabenstein, Brian McCagh, William Stein, Jerry Moore, Douglas Reinhard and Kenneth Miesmer will appear on a panel at the program, and Brother Richard will be chairman for another panel.

Grand Jurors Urge Speed On New Building

Driver Education In Summer Backed

Planning for the proposed new county office building and jail should be expedited, the Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury recommended in its four-page report submitted yesterday at the conclusion of its four days of activity.

C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, submitted a 15-page feasibility study to the county commissioners October 1 recommending construction of a five-story county office building and jail facing Greene Street adjacent to the Court House. The top floor of this five-story building would house the county jail.

Provisions would be made for adequate off-street parking and there would be a walkway over Prospect Square leading from the new building to the Court House.

This is what the grand jury had to say about the proposed building:

Expedite Plans

"The grand jury recommends that specialized professional talent be retained to prepare preliminary designs and estimates so that a definite project proposal can be presented and expedited. It is important that this project be processed with all possible haste to alleviate the conditions existing in the County Jail and other county buildings."

In an earlier section of the report, concerning inspections of county institutions, it is stressed that the grand jury members are united in their opinion that the present County Jail is worn out and needs replacement by a new jail. The 23 grand jurors urge that the county commissioners provide new facilities as early as this can be done.

The grand jury report states in its final section that the Board of Education should consider the feasibility of extending driver education to teenagers if necessary during summer months so that it may be available to more students who may desire this instruction.

27 Indictments

The grand jury reports that it examined 49 witnesses in four days of activity and returned 27 indictments.

In one section of its report, the grand jury encourages J. William Hunt, chairman of the Washington memorial committee, for his efforts to obtain a memorial for General George Washington to be placed on the Court House lawn. The grand jury urges U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall to use his "best influence" to obtain an immediate hearing on this proposal so that it can be determined whether federal funds are available for this monument. It was in the vicinity of the present Court House that Washington, as President of the United States, reviewed the troops during the Whisky Rebellion of 1794.

The whole fourth section of the grand jury report is devoted to inspections made by the grand jury or its committees. The grand jury found the Court House in good condition but recommended that the ceilings on several third floor offices be renewed in keeping with conditions in the rest of the building.

Congratulations were extended to the county treasurer and his staff on the efficient manner in which this operation is conducted.

The grand jury reports that the physical condition of Sylvan Retreat is good, considering the age of the building. The superintendent told the grand jury that ramps will be installed to replace existing fire escapes which will be more accessible for elderly patients. The elevator previously recommended is being installed.

Sign Variance Gets Approval

The Allegany County Board of Appeals yesterday afternoon conditionally approved the granting of a variance to Robert E. Robinette from setback requirements for an advertising sign along the south side of U. S. Route 40 on Red Hill in Election District 24.

The three-man board said it would be permissible for Mr. Robinette to keep his LaVale motel sign just two feet eight inches from the right of way if this arrangement is approved by the State Roads Commission.

Harrison, of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Carroll S. Andrews, of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, B. Woodward Dyche, of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, W. Edward Jenkins, of Amcelle Plant of Celanese Fibers Company, Paul D. Long, of Potomac Edison Company (all veterans), and first-year member Eugene F. Fuller, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

Truckers Will Meet Monday

The Western Maryland Chapter of the Maryland Motor Truck Association will hold its October meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Club Monday at 6:30 p.m. A buffet dinner will be served.

Stanley Mamojek, field engineer for sales and service for Bendix Westinghouse air brakes, will talk on air brake fundamentals. He will explain new equipment improvements, and stress the need for education to get the best performance from automotive air brake systems.

Roger O. Charlton of Hagerstown, chapter president, asked that all members attend, as important matters relating to the industry will be discussed.

Mr. Charlton also extened an invitation to all non-member truckers and suppliers who may be interested in the association or in Mr. Mamojek's talk on air brakes.

Reservations may be made by telephoning C. E. Moody at PA 2-5454 or PA 4-1819, or Russell Carder, PA 4-6666.

Equity Suit Filed

Howard W. Bridges yesterday filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Naomi Bridges.

Kiwanis Observes Farm-City Week

Charles B. Leidenfrost, second from left, a Hungarian refugee who now is assistant county agent in Charles County in Southern Maryland, was guest speaker at the annual Farm-City Week program of the Kiwanis Club of Cumberland. The guest speaker is pictured with two Kiwanians and two of eight Allegany County farmers who were guests of the club yesterday. Left to right, they are Paul W. Barnett, Kiwanis president; Mr. Leidenfrost, Dr. Edwin L. Everhart, chairman of the Kiwanis committee on conservation of natural resources; Donald Brooke of Pinto and Leslie Rice of Williams Road, farmers.

Hungarian Refugee Cites Communist Farm Failures

A Hungarian refugee now living in Southern Maryland told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at a National Farm-City Week program yesterday that the sale of American wheat to the Communist countries is convincing proof that the Communist schemes for agricultural production cannot succeed.

The speaker was Charles B. Leidenfrost, now assistant county agent in Charles County. He was one of 250,000 who fled from Hungary during the 1956 revolution.

The Hungarian Communists' land reform plans failed for two basic reasons, Mr. Leidenfrost asserted. Because the farmers were given such small tracts of land and no horses, plows or seed to utilize, there was limited production. Because the state controlled the markets there was only one low price that they could get for their produce.

Mr. Leidenfrost came from a landed family. They once had about 500 acres but after World War II, when he returned from Germany, where he had been an interpreter for the Third American Army, only 50 acres were left. By 1950 this last acreage was confiscated by the state.

When his land was all gone, he trained himself as an automobile mechanic. However, by 1952 he was drafted into a labor force which built airports for Russian jet fighters.

By 1953, conditions in Hungary were modified and Mr. Leidenfrost found himself named agronomist for a socialist farmers' cooperative by which he was in charge of 1,200 acres.

Hungary, which once was called the "bread basket" of Europe has been unable to produce adequately under the state ownership of farm land. He noted that his native land had taken many of its early ideas on advanced farming methods from the English. For years it was common for Hungarian farmers to speak of the Norfolk rotation, a four-year rotation plan imported from England.

The Charles County assistant agent pointed out that there is a great difference between socialist farmers' cooperatives in Hungary, where the farmers had no choice, and the cooperative program in this country where the farmers voluntarily pool their resources.

Eight representative Allegany County farmers were guests of the Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA.

Proposed Housing Center Sites Seen By PHA Officials

Two Public Housing Authority staffers on Wednesday toured a number of sites being proposed as alternates to a location the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland has under option for a 100-unit development for senior citizens.

The PHA staffers, Mr. Bowers and Mr. Miller, were accompanied by James B. Raines, executive director, and S. Russ Minter, architect for the authority, and Mayor Earl D. Chaney and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer.

An informed source said the PHA officials said that any report as a result of the inspection trip would be made directly to the Housing Authority.

Arrow 77 Beer Now Made Here

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Globe Brewing Company disclosed Thursday its beer, brewed in Baltimore since 1744, is now being produced in Cumberland.

Francis D. McNamara, president of the firm, said the brewing is being handled by the Cumberland Brewing Company, one of the oldest industries in Western Maryland. Headed by William L. Wilson, an attorney, it makes and markets Old German and Old Export beer.

McNamara said Globe will continue to distribute its product, Arrow 77. He said the transfer of the brewing operation to Cumberland has resulted in a reduction of about 80 employes on the Globe payroll.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Beechie, Route 1, Box 566, Eckhart, a son yesterday.

Church Men To Meet

The Methodist Men of LaVale Methodist Church will hold a dinner meeting at 6:15 p. m. today in the fellowship hall of the church.

Harry R. Thomas, principal of McCoole School, and radiological officer for the Allegany County Civil Defense Agency, will speak. The Fazenbaker-Couter Circle of the WSCS will serve the meal.

Firemen Called To Rawlings

Volunteer firemen of Cresaptown yesterday afternoon were called to Rawlings where a utility pole caught fire.

They received the call about 1:45 p. m. but did not know the cause of the blaze.

Head Youth Commission

New officers of the Allegany County Youth Commission, elected this week, are John Allison, chairman; Mrs. Allen T. Foster, left, treasurer, and Mrs. Simeon P. Wilson, secretary. Also elected but not present when the picture was taken was Mrs. Jack Yankelevitz, vice chairman.

School Lunch Emphasis Due Next Week

There are only three school days next week because of the state teachers convention in Baltimore next Thursday, Friday and Saturday but the emphasis during this short week will be on food.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, county supervisor of cafeterias, pointed out yesterday that Governor J. Millard Tawes has signed a proclamation designating the week starting Sunday as Maryland School Lunch Week.

Governor Tawes' proclamation points out that the National School Lunch Act was a measure to safeguard the health and well being of the nation's children. He added that the school lunch program is essentially a community effort, depending on the interest and support of every citizen.

Congress approved a joint resolution last year designating the seven-day period beginning on the second Sunday of October each year as National School Lunch Week.

In many of the schools of Allegany County, parents are being invited to visit school cafeterias during this special week.

Mrs. Eaton said that for the three school days next week she has instructed the cafeteria managers to offer menus that have proved particularly popular with the boys and girls.

Monday's suggested menu calls for spaghetti with meat sauce, tossed green vegetable salad, French or Italian bread and butter, fruit cup and milk.

For Tuesday she recommends frankfurter on bun, relish, French fried potatoes, vegetable - pickle slaw, apricot or pineapple upside down cake and milk.

For Wednesday she suggests grapefruit-pineapple juice, chicken in gravy on hot biscuits, whipped potatoes, buttered green beans, ice cream and milk.

100 Observe Land Week At Fire Hall

More than 100 rural residents of Allegany County converged at the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall last night for the sixth annual observance of Maryland Land Week.

C. Lee Renaud, County planning director, spent about 10 minutes explaining the County's interim zoning ordinance and the new subdivision regulations and how they affect land owners of the county. The farmers asked the planning director a number of specific questions to obtain illustrations of how the measures affect them.

John Barton then showed a film of the safari his father Harry J. Barton, had to Kenya in Africa in January. The affair ended with ham sandwiches, coffee and cookies in the basement of the fire hall.

Wilbert Paul, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District, presided at the meeting. Nat Workman, one of the supervisors, submitted a report on the soil conservation practices carried on during the past year and what progress has been made since the district was created in 1942.

PETER J. CARPENTI

Local Lawyer's Funeral Service Slated Monday

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church for Peter J. Carpenti, local attorney and two-term Allegany County Trial Magistrate who died yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, will officiate, and interment will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home where friends will be received today, Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. The rosary will be recited at the funeral home on Sunday at 8 p. m.

Mr. Carpenti, who had been seriously ill for about a month, observed his 55th birthday September 18.

A resident of 642 Fayette Street, and active in numerous local organizations, Mr. Carpenti had been serving as the attorney general's special assistant with the Maryland State Roads Commission.

He served a term as a county trial magistrate under two Democratic governors, his latest service ending about three years ago. While in this capacity, he also served as city police magistrate.

Active In Community

Mr. Carpenti had served as president of several organizations, including the Allegany County Bar Association, Cristoforo Columbo Society, and Allegany County Chapter of Dapper Dans.

He was past grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, a charter member of Wamba Caravan, Order of Alhambra, and past commander of Victor Tambolleo Post Catholic War Veterans.

Mr. Carpenti had been serving as president of William Paca Lodge Sons of Italy, and held membership in Henry Hart Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion; Fraternal Order of Eagles; Fraternal Order of Police; and Loyal Order of Moose.

Mr. Carpenti was awarded his law degree by the University of Maryland School of Law, after receiving his bachelor's degree from Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg. He was a graduate of Allegany High School.

Upon graduation from law school he began his practice here with Harold E. Naughton and Richard F. Wertheimer, now of Washington. A few years later he joined the law firm of Simon F. Reilly and the late Estel C. Kelley. At the time of his death he was a member of the law firm of Reilly, Gerson and Carpenti.

Served In Europe

During World War II he served as an Army captain in Europe and particularly in Italy where he was an interpreter. He also worked in connection with the American Military Government at the end of the war. While in Italy he became seriously ill and was flown home.

He was active in Democratic politics and in the 1930s was one of the leaders in the Young Demo-

Group Is Named To Recommend Training Plan

Program Pushed By Industrial Unit

A committee was named here yesterday to set up a technical training program at Allegany Community College under the federal Manpower Development and Training Program.

The committee was appointed at a meeting held in the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce office under the sponsorship of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company.

Named to the committee were Rex L. Bell, area representative of the Department of Labor's apprenticeship and training program; J. D. Lonnholm, director of adult education for the Board of Education; Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the college; Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local Department of Employment Security office; Everett G. Partridge, UPIDC director, and Robert C. Petersen, Chamber of Commerce manager.

Leaders of business and industry attending the session stressed that the program should be sensitive to the area's needs.

Funds Available

The committee was asked to set up a tentative training program and submit it for consideration of the college's board of trustees.

It was asked to learn what types of post-high school training would be best suited to the needs of the area's industries and businesses.

When a decision is reached here, the proposed program would be submitted to state school and finally federal officials who administer the training program.

Mr. Partridge was told about $600,000 is available for the program in Maryland and that only Baltimore, with five classes, has taken advantage of the program.

Would Be First

If the program is adopted here, Allegany would be the first junior college in the state to make use of the federal program.

The types of training possible in colleges appears to be fairly broad, and includes training for such occupations as draftsman, stenographer, clerk-typist, salesperson, nurses aide, fry cook, tractor operator, electrician, machinist, automobile mechanic and data processing programmer.

Cites Advantages

In his opening remarks, Mr. Partridge pointed out that Allegany Community College instituted an in-training program in its chemical technology curriculum that already is receiving favorable comment from area industries.

Expansion of such technical training, he continued, would be an inducement for industries to locate here, and enhance the interest of local industries and companies in hiring ACC graduates.

Mr. Partridge stressed that Allegany County lost 5,400 persons through "out migration" in the past 10 years, most of them in the 20 to 49 age group, generally considered the most financially productive years. A third of the county's population in 1960 was 45 years of age or over, he pointed out, adding that the percentage was well above both the state and national averages.

"Business and industry provide jobs, and to get business and industry we need skills," the UPIDC director said. "If we can provide today's high school graduates with the opportunity to acquire further education and skills," Partridge said, "we will be in a better position to interest industries in locating here and in improving our economy."

Company Will Mark 'Birthday'

The 63d anniversary of the People's Life Insurance Company will be celebrated with a cocktail party, dinner and dance today, beginning at 6:15 p. m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Harry L. Thomas, chairman of arrangements, will deliver the welcome address, and Robert Collins, local manager, will be master of ceremonies.

Speakers will include Maryland Attorney General Thomas B. Finan and T. M. Jenkins, vice president of the company.

Other guests will be Harold E. Tipton, company comptroller; W. J. Cornell, Hagerstown branch manager; Elwood Rosencrance, assistant Salisbury branch manager, and Harold E. Naughton.

Assisting Mr. Thomas with arrangements are Mr. Collins, Michael Robinson, Roy McCabe and Michael Fisher.

The Modernaires from Somerset, Pa., will provide music for dancing. The dinner will begin at 7 p. m.

Torch Staffers To Attend Meeting

Six editors of The Torch, LaSalle High School student publication, and their moderator, Brother G. Richard, FSC, will attend the all-day Villanova Publications Conference today at Villanova (Pa.) University.

Torch editors Lawrence Grabenstein, Brian McCagh, William Stein, Jerry Moore, Douglas Reinhard and Kenneth Miesmer will appear on a panel at the program, and Brother Richard will be chairman for another panel.
